飛龍

Hiryū (飛龍) or "Flying Dragon" in Yamataigo (邪馬台語).

Kenpachi was given this nickname by his father, Motoyoshi-Ieyasu Taro due to his nature of being the first to fight and being the center of attention with his flashy combat style. This Power forward combat mentality followed him through his Star Army of Yamatai career, and also has been shown in both his social interactions and personal fighting style.

Physical Description

Kenpachi is a male NH-33 (Tennyo) with silvered hair and matching silverish eyes. He has elfin styled ears like his brother Motoyoshi-Ieyasu Tetsuya though a less slender face and a seemingly stronger jaw than his brother's.

Kenpachi tends to waver back and forth on whether he wears cologne unlike his brother, but when he does he wears "Builders" which tends to smell of Sandalwood, Sage and Spruce.

Personality

Where his brother is typically strategic and calculating, Kenpachi is the opposite in nearly every respect. Loud, Brash, forward, fool hardy, Kenpachi says what is on his mind and does what his heart and emotions tell him. An ETSP personality type, Kenpachi tends to be the life of the party and easily can strike up a conversation with most anyone, and while he seemed a bit bull headish or dull, he can be deceptively intelligent, even if he doesn't show it like his brother. Very close to his brother, he tends to strive for his approval just as much as he pushes to make his parents proud.

With his subordinates, at times he can try a little to hard to show that he is the same as them, regardless of the colors of his panels or how shiny his rank pin is, but he often stands side by side with his men and women under him so long as they give him everything they have. He is the same in and out of the military, doing the same for those that work under him in the Yugumo corporation.

History

Kenpachi was created by Ketsurui-Motoyoshi Katsuko and Motoyoshi-Ieyasu Taro in YE 32. He was born a NH-33Y (Youngling) (NH-33 (Tennyo)) on Nataria. He was raised by Motoyoshi-Ieyasu Taro and officially only utilized the Ieyasu surname until YE 43 when his existence was shared with the rest of the Motoyoshi Clan along side his older brother Motoyoshi-Ieyasu Tetsuya.

For much of his life, Kenpachi lived aside his brother, acting as his protector and buffer between him and others to make sure that Tetsuya could grow into the position they were grooming him for. While his brother went to Kyoto War College after their time at Fort Minori Reserve Center, Kenpachi went directly in and worked his way through the ranks through work. He rose as quickly as his brother, both with a knack for war in different ways, and after he was promoted to Shoi Kohosei through Star Army Infantry positions, he eventually transferred and began to learn star ship operations under his brother as he gained his own ranks, and eventually transferred under the command of his brother just toward the end of Kuvexian War as a Combat Systems Operator which he began to learn to help Tetsuya more.

With the end of the Kuvexian War and his brother leaving active service, Kenpachi followed suit with little thought to staying full time. He moved to the Star Army Reserve with the rank of Taii at the end of the war. Shortly after he entered into the Yugumo Corporation with the rank of Fuku-Shachō 🌼■■■ while maintaining his service to the empire through the Star Army Reserve at Fort Tokyo.
