The Design

Designed with the immediate needs of Rated Crew in mind, the bunkrooms are designed to house two to four individuals. In cases where there are four individuals, the room is slightly larger with two sets of bunk beds instead of one.

These bunkrooms are typically utilized by two to four crew members, depending on the ship's size and layout. Here's a detailed description of the Yugumo Rated Crew Bunkrooms:

Size and Layout

The bunkrooms are compact and space-efficient, given the limited space available on a starship. They are usually rectangular or square in shape. A typical bunkroom can accommodate two to four crew members, and the layout is adjusted accordingly. For rooms housing two crew members, the space is more spacious, while those for four crew members are more compact.

Bunk Beds

Bunk beds are a common feature in these rooms to maximize space utilization. Each crew member has their own bunk, and these are typically arranged in tiers. The bunk beds are designed for comfort and safety, with secure railings to prevent crew members from falling during turbulent space travel.

Personal Storage

Each crew member has a dedicated storage space near their bunk. This may include lockable cabinets, drawers, or shelves for storing personal belongings, uniforms, standard issue equipment, and personal effects.

Lighting and Atmosphere

The bunkrooms are equipped with adjustable lighting to cater to individual preferences and sleep cycles. Soft, dimmable LED lighting is typically used to create a calming ambiance. The atmosphere in the bunkrooms is controlled for temperature, humidity, and air quality, ensuring crew members can rest comfortably in various conditions. Volumetric Windows are often included to improve these rooms.

Privacy Features

Privacy curtains or partitions are available for crew members who prefer some level of privacy in their bunk areas. The rooms may have soundproofing materials to minimize noise from the corridors or adjacent rooms, allowing crew members to rest without disturbances.

Personal Amenities

Each bunk may come with a small personal KAIMON console, allowing crew members to watch movies, read, or access ship-related information during their downtime. Charging ports and data ports are available for KAIMON/Ascendant Companion, personal devices, such as tablets or communicators.

Sanitary Facilities

Bunkrooms have shared restroom facilities nearby, equipped with toilets, sinks, and basic hygiene amenities. Showers are available in separate communal areas to conserve space within the bunkrooms.

Safety Features

The bunkrooms are equipped with emergency lighting, and escape routes are clearly marked in case of emergencies. Yugumo Standard Fire-Fighting Equipment and Systems and emergency medical kits are readily accessible.

Maintenance and Cleaning

Routine maintenance and cleaning are scheduled to keep the bunkrooms in good condition and ensure crew members' well-being.
