

Neshaten Repair Kits

The Repair Kit is used by Neshaten engineers and civilians to repair broken machinery, vehicles, or in the case of starships, onboard systems. The kit's actual contents vary greatly depending on what kit is bought and where it is located.

The Kit came about in the early ER 220 year when the Neshaten began constructing vehicles for distance travel, at the time only the vehicular kit and the weapons repair kits were created but for the most part both kits were basic and are still basic even to this day. The starship repair kit wasn't created until just after ER 620, with all three kits still in production today. The kits were created and manufactured by Shukara Armaments and Manufacturing.

Some of the kits are designed to be used only with vehicles, such as Vehicular Repair Kits, while other kits are designed for ships and stations, such as the Starship Repair Kit. There are also weapon repair kits as well.

Starship Repair Kit

Found on starships and on stations, the SRK is designed to serve the needs of soldiers serving on a starship or a station, by supplying them with the tools needed to repair breaches in the hull or systems that have either suffered damage during battle or have suffered a malfunction and need repairing. The kits also have small bundles of cabling that allows them to replace fried or otherwise broken cables, amongst a few other items.

The SRK comes with the most common of known tools, along with a hull repair tool and plasma welding torch.
