History and Background

When the process of designing Port Jiyuu began in YE 42, it was requested by Ketsurui-Motoyoshi Katsuko that the Green Sector of the station included a private residence for the Motoyoshi Clan. Since Jiyuu Jo is shared with the Star Army of Yamatai, the elders of the Motoyoshi Clan felt the need for the clan and its members to have some privacy.

The initial designs were submitted by Motoyoshi-Igarashi Yue, which were then given to Ketsurui-Motoyoshi Katsuko and Motoyoshi-Ieyasu Taro. They made changes and suggestions and sent the design plans back to Motoyoshi-Igarashi Yue and her mother Motoyoshi-Igarashi Yuka to finalize them.

In YE 43, the palace was constructed and completed early in the year and the Motoyoshi Clan established their residency. When the Colonization Initiative was announced in YE 44, the Motoyoshi Clan planned for increase usage of this residence since Port Jiyuu was going to be used as a colonization platform. Motoyoshi Kaoru refuses to keep a residence here and maintains her Midnight's Asagumo Pad instead.

Description

Asagumo-Jo is at the center of Asagumo City. It is a one-hundred-and-eighty-six-level skyscraper with a narrow pyramid 🏯pagoda-style profile. Unlike most castles in the Yamatai Star Empire, it forgoes a lot of the traditional architecture focusing on an ultra high-tech look. It can be seen from anywhere in the main level of the Green Sector and is often looked at in awe by citizens of the city.
