History

The ECS Panopteles - along with her slightly younger sister ship, the YSS Anoiktos - were both constructed at Elysia Novus in AD 4005 (YE 34) to fill the need for a relatively inexpensive high-speed, mid-power, and low-defense attack vessel in the ranks of the Elysian Celestial Navy; after the Panopteles was revealed to be even less combat-capable than expected during her trials, however, the fate of the class was placed in jeopardy - that is, until an initiative to scout out the Eudokia system as part of a broader plan to relocate the Elysian homeworld was proposed three years later in AD 4008 (YE 37). Being the slightly newer of the two vessels, the Anoiktos was added to the Star Army's Tenth Fleet - becoming the YSS Anoiktos in the process - and dispatched to the Elysian Expanse; unfortunately, however, the ship suffered a catastrophic loss of aether reactor containment shortly after entering the arriving at Eudokia, causing the Panopteles to be grounded indefinitely as it underwent thorough inspections, additional diagnostics, and extended spaceworthiness trials that lasted until AD 4011 (YE 40), at which point it was mothballed at the Elysian Naval Arsenal until further notice due to bureaucratic delays and budgetary cuts caused by political gridlock in the Elysian Senate. In the final month of AD 4016 (YE 45), however, the Panopteles was abruptly reactivated and recommissioned due to the powers-that-be of the Elysian Celestial Empire realizing that they needed a vessel to finish charting the Elysian Expanse so that it could be colonized in order to solve the Empire's many rapidly-growing societal issues (such as crime, overcrowding, and economic stagnation, to name a few).

Description

Like her dearly departed sister, the ECS Panopteles is a long and thin craft covered in the opalescent-hued scale armor common to most Elysian military vessels.

Modifications

The ECS Panopteles hasn't been modified... yet.

Crew

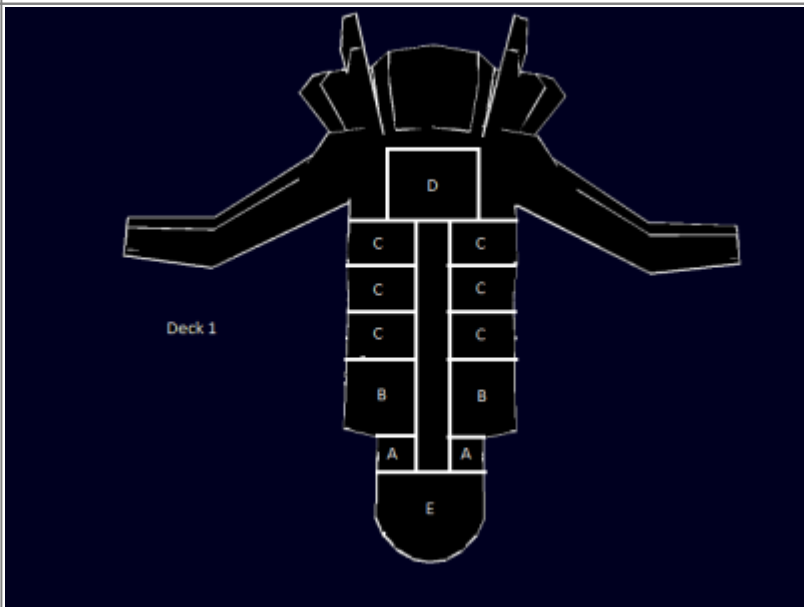

The crew of the ECS Panopteles is a mixture of personnel from the Elysian Celestial Navy and the Star Army of Yamatai.

Cabin Assignments

The two officer's quarters and six crew quarters are all conveniently located on Deck 1. The officer's quarters are intended for one person (though, courtesy of their queen-sized beds, can easily fit two in the event of battle damage and/or romantic liaisons); the crew quarters, however, can only comfortably sleep one person each.
