Physical Description

Aries is a curvaceous woman at 5'9" in height and a DD chest, that is more easily identified for her crimson red hair and eyes. Her complexion is rather pale, yet smooth and youthful, her face rather supple and rounded. Her hourglass figure leaves her with wide hips, yet still, a very flexible body, and a leaned musculature that is lightly toned.

Personality

Aries has always had a tendency to be drawn towards conflict, in any form, and it shows in every action. The woman has only the drive to win and succeed at whatever she does, and always relishes a challenge. Seductive, persuasive, commanding, and a cunning intellect make her a hard foe to cross, especially when pushed far enough to be angered. Prone to violence when viewed as needed, and even more so when angered. Her fiery crimson hair and eyes, are both hints at her energetic personality that drives all these motivations home whether through strategy, or the blade meant for her foe's heart.

History

In YE 29, Aries was but a project and an idea, an attempt of Psychopomp LLC to get more out of the product the Fenrir project created. Using DNA from one of the females of Fenrir Division, and using some of the research which later lead to the creation of Lazarus, brought Aries into the world. However, something had been done wrong, a note of the growing process incomplete, but who knew.

Aries was born in the body of a frail woman, her body never successfully accepting the enhancements, or tweaks to her genetics. With the collapse of her genetics, she was left to die, dumped with some other undesirable which were later found by a Star Army patrol. With no identity, home, or past, she was brought in and treated as well as given a new life. Having been given a new Geshrin body, Aries picked her current name and traveled until the year YE 40.

It was this year when she met her current boss, Lazarus, the man who was actually successful in what PsychoPomp wanted. Finding a place in his growing company, Nexus Private Security, she quickly rose to be his top general and commander.

Skills Learned

- Fighting: Aries has been trained to hone her body to be as precise as a blade, and as powerful as Minkan. She is highly trained and effective in hand to hand combat. Same goes for the combat operation of mechs and other similarly designed tools of war.

- Firearms: Living up to her nickname, “the goddess of war”, Aries has studied and trained relentlessly with every gun and personnel carried weapon available on the market, and even a few less commercial ones.
- Piloting: Aries knows her way around a air/space craft, and the skill to pull off most intermediate maneuvers. However, her recklessness when piloting, leave few who wish to stay in the same craft as her.
- Demolitions: Knowing her way around most modern day explosives, and how to mix these compounds. Aries knows how to not leave a building standing when needed, as well as turning most hardened structures to rubble.
- Leadership: From birth she was taught the ways of war like a religion, and brainwashed into following it to the point of zealotry. The charisma of such a bold and driven belief has lead others to follow her, seeking victory usually not disappointingly delivered. Knowing how to, and when to best use the troops at her command. She can predict what course of action her enemy will take with startling effectiveness, as she plots for multiple contingencies and variations.
- Domestic: Even with the chaos of her calling and purpose given by her creators, Aries is a unsettling calm in the home. Cooking, cleaning, and laundry are all fully and meticulously handled. With great effectiveness in speed and quality of completion.
- Musical: Aries is highly proficient in the playing of guitars, harps, and trumpets.
