Physical Description

Qualsi is an attractive Qaktoro, she has white skin with rare white short body fur with smaller black spots. She is 170cm tall and weighs 87kg. She has pale blue almond-shaped eyes that have a somewhat mirror-like gloss to them. Her body language tends to be reserved and kept to a very methodic and planned motion, when in combat she tends to strike with extremely fluid and dance-like motions.

Personality

Qualsi has a very reserved personality; she has a tendency to speak last or only when it counts. She puts her confidence in the data she collects and the knowledge-driven process behind the scientific method, she very rarely would risk an opinion formed in lack of observation and can be stubborn when it comes to the defense of her conclusions. She is very organized, and her life's work is passionately inspired by increasing the clan's knowledge of the universe around them. Her analytical mind is always at work, she's is a female that has mastered the Nutarka (the pause) in social interactions where she tends to be drawn to people of a similar profession and often regards those that are outside of the scientific community as ignorant even if she doesn't voice that observation.
