Besides her outwardly positive demeanor, Shasta is an overly energetic person and does gets easily restless and prone to bouts of wanderlust. Finding it almost impossible to stay put or be confined to the same place for any prolonged period of time.

History

Pre-RP

Shasta Archeletta was born and raised in the bustling megacity of Roger Wilco by Keiji Archeletta and Shani Archeletta, A Yamataian man and a Nepleslian Mutant who fell in love under extenuating circumstances. Despite this, Shasta was raised to maturity under a mother who spent most of her time away on a business neither of her parents ever spoke of. And a father too busy with his work at a nearby campus as an IT consultant to give a growing child the proper attention needed to grow and develop properly, Often leaving Shasta alone with nothing but the small, colorful flying toy drones that always flew around his office playing music and coaxing her into chasing and playing with them to keep her young mind occupied while her father worked.

As the years went on, Shasta found herself to have a natural affinity with the robotics and handling that composed her intricate toys her father made. By breaking down, Re-assembling, and bothering her father with questions. Shasta had found an interesting hobby in dronecraft. And under the occasional tutelage of her father learned the proper coding and work necessary to even build and maintain her own.

By her late teens, Shasta had developed an uncontrollable wanderlust. At some point, it even threatened her fathers' job when she couldn't stay put and would wander the labs and campuses. With the consent of her father and a small, unspoken loan from her mother for necessities, Shasta traveled deeper into the city to offer what skills she had in order to buy or work her way onto a ship to anyone that would pay, All to fund her own private adventures through the stars.

Foundation of madness

Following a brief but exciting time as a bounty hunter shasta would meet her future buisness partner and more importantly partner in crime and madness; Phage Nine Two B 92B-4561-8893.

Phage, a clone of the prominent and well known freespacer Steelrender Lycosidae Nine Two 92-4561-8893 and shasta would embark on a wild and fantastical journey of debt, discovery, and unnecessary workplace safety violations when together they declared their sole and unrefuteable (to them) claim on the entire planet of Freehold Factory and formed the Shasta No Sekai corporation in YE-40 based around salvaging hidden spacer tech-vaults and factories left behind by phages progenitor Lycosidae.

The corporation would evolve over time to offer not just salvage but in their drive to control the world and to evict squatters such as other salvage corporations the corporation would quickly militarize and begin a passionate and secret cleansing of the world with the use of a small corporation created mercenary force, mechs, and a small army of automated drones inhabited by corporation created AI.

This newly established military force would quickly push Shasta (now nicknamed the Mad Mutant by not only her followers but by many who would learn of her existence) to continue the militarization of her corporation and venture into other prospects for the corporation besides just scrounging for the scraps lycosidae left behind.

Madness incarnate

Shasta would lead her company into many actions starting in YE-42 that would largely have them labeled as pirates due to the poorly trained and unprofessional actions of her mercenaries and corporation. This would further be cemented by the corporation taking on contracts by many groups blacklisted in the kikyo sector such as the Kuvexians.

Shastas' Titles

Over the founding of her company and thereafter Shasta as acquired many nicknames, titles, awards, descriptions and monikers that have been used to describe or ascribe her. Despite even the insulting nature of some of them, she has taken to many of them and often inserts them into many messages and public communications.
