Personality

Goofball that loves to play games, sing and dance and pull harmless pranks, but a raging ball of fury when upset, loyal to the highest coin, doesn't like large crowds,

History

Lordun was gifted with a fairly normal childhood on a Yamatai Star Empire colony planet, his parents were affluent upper middle class merchants, where he often spent his days entertaining other youths with his wild stories told of other peoples' myths, and brought a pleasant air of fantasy to the shop. Being a popular and well respected place, his parents had the favor and money to send him to a well respected school, enlisting in the Star Army in YE 27, ending his enlistment in YE 30.

His opinions varied from time to time, but it was consistently felt that he would be bored returning to the mercheant life after the excitement and adventure of the Grand Star Army. This led him into a life of mercenary work christened by his parents' purchase of a base model Eye II corvette in late YE:40¹⁾ to get him to and from his contracts. He's been very careful with this ship, and with its kind use, has managed to avoid major repairs, speeding tickets, etc.

Various jobs have given him bits of information on the NDC, leading him to make contact and begin operations with their government, leading him to work with their issued weapons and armor.
