Personality

"It's not about the size of the dog in the fight. It's about the size of the fight in the dog."

Tanya has anger management issues. She mainly held in check by discipline and force of will, but it can and has led to trouble. She is an extroverted introvert, while she does enjoy hanging out with people and going out, she by far prefers small gatherings of close friends and family, and if in a social gathering can just be by herself reading, and thoroughly enjoys just being around people.

She enjoys reading, playing games, and getting into scraps. She loves food of all kinds and frequently cooks for herself and for close family or friends that come over.

She gets angry easily, an example of a hot button being her height, but it is hard to truly piss her off, and the results are not usually pretty for the one that did so. She works hard so she can be lazy when she wants to be. She likes animals of all kinds, especially dangerous ones. She often calls things cute even if others would not normally do so.

She has a foul mouth, especially in combat.

Typically a loner due to awkwardness around people not of her extended family, but views her squad or unit as a pseudo-family.

She typically reads laws and regulations so that she can skirt or break the spirit of them without getting into legal trouble.

History

Tanya Kuznyetski was born 27日 7月 24 like many Kuznyetski on one of the many moons of Planet Nepleslia and was raised in the apartment complex held by her extended family.

Tanya's immediate family was a family that had each generation been in the marines. Her father, her grandfather, and great grandfather. Her great-grandfather was an ID-SOL who had eventually settled down on Stenkagorad after meeting her Great Grandmother.

Growing up with her family and extended family was mixed, but it was generally great. The issue was her height; Tanya was quite literally the runt of the litter, with a final height of 5 foot 2 inches, whereas her family and extended family all were of at least 6 feet in height. This naturally led to some bullying, which along with a couple of things lead to her developing anger management issues. It also lead her to learn how to fight quite efficiently, as all her opponents were bigger than her and lead to her being more of an introvert, often reading books more than playing with other kids.

She had a full education with science and maths being her top subjects, though she did not know what to do with her life, as she never truly knew what she wanted. This led to her taking several tertiary courses that partially interested her. In the end though she decided to do as her father and grandfather had done and joined the Marine Corps.

When she came of age, she as was all Kuznyetski, tasked with making her own personal weapon. Wanting something that would pack a punch while still being portable, she came up with the idea of a Shotgun using the same method of a High Hybrid Gun. Deciding that she wanted overwhelming close range firepower, she made a pump-action shotgun chambered in 4 gauge shells, combined with the Mass Driver tech of the HHG, creating essentially a 4 gauge shotgun who's slugs or buckshot would not just be accelerated by the gunpowder, but by the mass driver incorporated into it. She was very happy with the result, even if it did hurt her wrists somewhat during the test.
