Physical Description

Yildiz stands a hair taller than her countrymen at 6'3" with a silhouette both curvaceous and strong, broad shoulders and hips compliment a svelte and striated waistline, with impressive biceps framing her buxom and weighty chest. With a strong, triangular jaw and high cheekbones Yildiz is a rather handsome woman. Soft lips, rich hazel eyes and a streak of grey in her otherwise dark-brown hair - normally kept in a practical braid over her left shoulder.

Yildiz's right arm is made from a series of gold and black composite plates below her elbow, a rather sturdy and fairly high-end looking augmentation that distracts from her other cybernetics. That limb distracts most from noticing her other implants, with Yildiz's left eye being a mechanical replacement in a slightly lighter shade of brown. The eye is connected to a direct neural interface in the base of her skull and a basic ballistic computer by a bundle of synthetic nerves, with the main giveaway being the way it reflects infrared light.

Her well-marbled musculature features a handful of scars slicing through her mocha-toned skin, a neat surgical scar beneath the crease of each breast, a small scar splitting Yildiz's left eyebrow, and a jagged zipper of scar-tissue on the inside of her right bicep. Her voice is husky and she typically carries a faint scent of rich Coffee, dressing in fairly utilitarian though form-flattering outfits when off-duty.

Personality

Yildiz is a calculating, incredibly level-headed individual with a constant desire to push herself further. Her eyes are constantly picking apart the motivations, methods and minutae of those around her - often absentmidedly mirroring the way others handle their utensils in the mess-hall.

Despite her tendency to pick people apart Yildiz is quite a personable individual with a husky, infectious giggle. Her sly gaze, attentive body-language and faint smirk are usually enough to lure most strangers into talking with her.

History

Yildiz Avci was born in mid YE 17 in the cargo-bay of his family's mega-shuttle as it transported goods between distant ports, a baby of the void who knew only artificial lighting and pressurized hulls for the first few months of his life. It was a nomadic life of flying port-to-port with caravans of other cargo long-haulers, and while Yildiz took to it quickly, he always wanted to see more of the universe than just the outer-edge cargo lanes of the Kikyo Sector.

Near his 16th birthday Yildiz jumped ship and caught a ride with an outer-sector mercenary fleet that were making their way into Nepleslian space, leaving behind a heartfelt note to his family as he began his new life helping out with logistics and repairs for this mercenary company. Over the next few years he moved from doing repairs on the mercenary fighters after missions of sitting in the cockpit, and fully embraced Nepleslian culture, beginning to adopt female pronouns in YE 22 as the augmentations began piling on.

Yildiz's final flight as a mercenary was mid-YE 39, where her cockpit was shattered in-atmosphere by a high-profile Kuvexian-backed mercenary pilot. The enemy pilot sent her Scimitar Starfighter into a flat-spin and lodged shards of the fighter's canopy in her left eye and right arm, despite this, Yildiz still managed to point her nose at the enemy long enough to rip his gilded jet apart with her heavy laser.

With her contract nearing its end and having crashed not too far from a Nepleslian base Yildiz opted to not pop her emergency beacon and instead marched to that base, the enemy pilot's helmet in tow cashing in the bounty on the target, getting herself patched up and beginning the enlistment process. Yildiz plated the cybernetic replacement for her right arm with parts taken from that enemy pilot's helmet and would go on to earn the callsign "Midas" for it, well-documented history as a wing-for-hire helping her expedite the process to be put in the seat of a fighter somewhat, starting a highly successful career.

Her unique past as a mercenary pilot before joining the navy soon found Midas swapping careers from being solely a fighter pilot to playing the role of various adversaries for training purposes, exposure to the non-traditional tactics and airframes used by outer-sector mercenaries aiding her in this process.

Her exposure to the non-traditional tactics and airframes used by outer-sector independent pilots quickly found Midas taking the role of various adversaries for training purposes, a roll she thoroughly enjoyed until YE 45 when an opportunity arose to attach herself to the Second Expeditionary Fleet as the lead of a small three-man flight dubbed "Warwolf Squadron" - a chance to expose herself to pilots outside of the Kikyo sector once again.
