Pre-RP

Though it's not as common, Laibes sometimes have a Daur child. This was the case with Kit'suki. Growing up was a bit hard on him. He found his parents loved and cared for him but always had a slight sadness to them. He came to rely more on his Older brother who always seemed to take care of him. Kil'nda always tried any of the food he made even if it wasn't that great and even stood up for him if some of the Laibe children in the neighborhood picked on him for being different.

From a young age, Kit'suki has taken an interest in the fields of medicine and medical studies. By the time he was ready to enter the Youth Corps he chose to try and learn how to be a healer believing he could be of use to the Military best if he used his efforts to help heal and keep people alive.
