History

Family (or Creators)

(54) Su'kelo Ser'rai - Father - Healer - Served as a combat medic in the Navy, influenced Zes'kas to do the same. He is an ardent believer in equality, and passed this belief to Zes'kas. Now serves in a hospital.

(53) Su'kelo Shy'ra - Mother - Healer - Served with Ser'rai in the Navy. (This is where they met) She shares many of the same beliefs as him, such as equality, in the necessity of peace for prosperity. Now serves in a hospital.

Pre-RP

Zes'kas was raised by his parents in their modest household on Nesha Prime. Being an only child, he was cared for well by his parents, and was quickly taught equality among all species in the Kingdom, none inferior to the other. Though he was teased by his Liabe counterparts for such a view, he kept it, as he himself knew it was right. During schooling, much like his parents he was adept in all things related to biology and medical studies. His parents kept a close eye on his schooling, and when he turned twelve, instead of joining the youth corps, his parents took him under their wing, and began teaching him the art of healing.

During the period between twelve and joining the Navy, he assisted his parents in the hospital they worked in. He started with basic tasks, such as carrying bandages, or just talking to patients. However as time went, his parents taught him the basics. By the end of his "tutoring" Zes'kas was a shoe-in for a combat medic when he enlisted for the Navy.

Zes'kas has just completed his training, and though new to the Navy, he is confident that he has the skills required to keep his team alive and well.

Skills

Communications

Zes'kas can read, write, and speak Tinacen fluently, and can operate basic communications devices.

Fighting / Archer

Like all soldiers, Zes'kas can fight, and do so well for a non-combatant. He has been trained for unarmed, melee, and firearms. Though he has been trained with a variety of Neshaten weapons, he avidly practices with the bow, preferring it over any other weapon. Though he has oathed to avoid taking a life, he is accurate, and fast to fire the weapon.

Survival

Zes'kas has been trained to survival out in the wild, with or without people along for the ride. Finding food and water, build/finding shelter, navigation, and hunting are just a few skills necessary to survive in the wild.

Fitness

Being enlisted within the military entails maintaining physical fitness, and Zes'kas is ardent in maintaining his form. He exercises at least once a day, if possible. He can run, jump, lift his own weight, and other physical activities quite well.

Combat Medic

Zes'kas primary role is to heal, to the best of his abilities. He knows how to mend and patch a wide range of wounds, administer medicines and drugs, and do so all on the battlefield.

Biology

Zes'kas is well-versed in the biology of all species of the Kingdom, the Liabes, Duar, and My'leke. He knows all the inner workings, and how to "fix" it. This is due to his occupation as a medic.

Knowledge

As standard of all members of the Kingdom, Zes'kas is knowledgeable in the history of all three races, and knows of the disputes that occurred before. He also is well-versed in Neshaten laws and codes, being enlisted within the military. In addition, he is well-informed on all things related to his profession of being a medic.

OOO Discussion

Took long enough to actually start making this Neshaten. At least it's done!

Under no Circumstances is this character allowed to be 'adopted' or otherwise controlled without my permission, Sham
