Physical Description

From the top down, he's got some neatly kept dark blond hair styled into an ivy league cut, blue eyes, a rounded jawline, and although he is usually clean shaven, his beard has a reddish tint to it when it grows out. He stands at about 5'11" (1.8m), and carries an average build, neither scrawny nor overly muscular. He weighs 150 pounds, (68 kg) give or take.

Personality

Chance has a quiet and laid back personality, usually fairly positive and with an impressive buffer of patience. That said, he is very much a slow-burning Aries, and has pride and ambition pushing him towards various goals, either in his career or personal projects. He isn't a loner, but he avoids overly boisterous gatherings unless encouraged to join in, preferring smaller groups or visits with friends. He likes to design ships and other large projects on the side as a hobby.

History

Chance was born on khorsovarolor in mid YE 20 of fairly common birth and upbringing. Unfortunately, tragedy struck when he was about ten years old, and a worldwide plague broke out. Responding early enough, his parents liquidated all their holdings, and managed to secure placement on evacuation ships, before the lockdowns would quarantine the rest of the populace. A few such ships were launched, and some succumbed to the plague afterward... but luck was with the one he was aboard, and after some deliberation, his family became refugees on Neplesia. It was a dramatic culture shock to Chance, but it was a taste he grew to appreciate. Even so, he knew it wasn't truly his, and so as he grew he knew his destiny would be among the stars.

He saw a lot. He discovered a lot. And then, he took to learning, and learning opened up to inspiration and ideas for things that he was sure could be useful, and that was how he got noticed by a talent scout for Origin. Once he graduated, he should contact them, and find a job among the stars.

Most recently, Chance has completed the prerequisite education and training to be given a post in either a science or maintenance type role, and has been promoted to full time employee after an orientation period.
