Physical Description

A zenith of Norian poise and beauty cast into an uncertain universe by the debased maw of gloaming hunger.

This absolute specimen stands on the short end of the small band that Norians still tower over most Nekovalkryja with. At approximately 176cm tall, her frame is tall, rather svelte, and well curved, as smooth as anyone while still keeping flared hips, and quite a backside. She has long slender legs, and a pleasant if very slight gap between her thighs.

Atop her head sits a shock of beautiful, pure white hair that is slightly wavy and has a swaying bounce, especially since it only falls over her shoulders on one side of her head. It's a feminine undercut fade, with a line cut into the edge of her (also white) eyebrow tracing up along the shaved side of what looks like an austere mountain peak. It resembles six or so lines curling away from one another reminiscent of formation flying.

Her ears are towards the smaller side, but as expressive as they come. It is not hard to coax a smile out of her plumped lips, and her pert nose is sometimes roped into her showing her smile as well. The woman's eyes stand out for yellow-gold not that much different from her father, except for odd white flecks in them when viewed from close up, like a flurry thrown into a pile of riches or mixed with the last golden yellow leaves of Autumn.

The slightest perfume clings to her, one has to be close or very acute to detect the reproduction of precious plants that cannot currently be sacrificed to vanity yet, from her homeland. When she speaks it is with an almost musical and confident stride.

She weighs about 61kg.

Personality

Arina is a woman that remembers her duty, and has only ever lived in the path of war and suffering. She does have a rather healthy sense of humor compared to many others, as much a coping mechanism as anything else.

In public she remembers that she represents the Caeyara, but is more likely to let the other side of her personality show when relaxed or sure of her company. There is a bit of cockiness towards her skills, and she very much has a, "Fake it 'till you make it!", Attitude towards anything else.

As a younger royal, she feels it is her responsibility to push the societal mores of her people as someone in a rather visible position. This is only reinforced by the Norian exodus to the Kikyo sector, and she is more than happy to associate with other species in her new home freely, and encourages others to carve a new, happier life for themselves.

It is easy for her to fall for others, and a little hard to let go even when she has a healthy break. When she decides she likes someone, it is hard for her to admit to herself if they are not good for her, or that they may not always have the best intentions for themselves, her, or others.

She is known for being headstrong, quick to comment, and a little quick to get riled up, though it fades very quickly and she is quick to forgive.

She feels stifled by the worship of the Builders, but does her best to give lip service as much as any other around her, though her animosity is directed more at their 'messengers' as anything else. The existence of the Builders seems as probable to her as anything else.

History

Arina Caeyara was born 21日 1月 02 on Noria. YE 02:

Born during the booming expansion of her family across the stars and to Ayenee. She was born and raised on Noria, and there was not much time in her life when war was not being raged somewhere for whatever cause throughout their proud Empire. She was raised mostly around the court, and the network of schools and social spots, as well as events, expected of a young royal meant to further the interests of the Emperor.

YE 18:

Not long after coming of age, the scion of the Caeyara was sent to more permanent training than she was already trained in growing up as a Caeyara. She faced constant physical and mental challenges. At the Norian Defense Education School she forged more of an identity for herself as a capable fighter, and an even more skilled pilot and master of space faring vessels. She was picked to enter the Yaducath Intelligence Agency as an Agent of the Empire.

YE 22:

With the end of the conflict on Ayenee, there was no longer a need for her to deploy immediately, and she spent longer training and studying to ensure anyone under her command as an officer would be as sure and proud of her as she was of herself.

YE 25:

After spending time touring the core planets and patrolling the borders of Norian space to keep an active defense as much as hone her skills, she returned to see the Empire become the Continuum, and her first taste of wide-scale combat took place as the Umarian Wars began.

YE 31:

The void war ripped many of her friends from her life, and left her isolated but determined to keep her crew and pilots alive (depending on her assignment). As the wars raged on, she even saw service as ground forces for the last three years when things were stretched. She began to be more of a problem in the elite social circles at home, and thus was kept at arm's length until she arrived at New Noria with the rest of her people, and spent more time with them as they prepared to colonize the world.

YE 44:

As one of the 'fortunate' survivors of the erasing of New Noria, she followed the desperate fleet of Leviathans into the Kikyo galaxy, hoping they would not be followed by their nemesis from the shadows of reality.
