Physical Characteristics

- Height: 5'9"
- Mass: 175 lbs
- Measurements:

Build and Skin Color: Milo is a rather thin man; muscle mass isn't among his primary features. He is also just the right shade of white to avoid being called "pale".

Eyes and Facial Features: He has rather youthful facial features, not quite sharp nor especially soft. His retinas bear an odd shade of pink.

Ears: Milo also has rather normal human ears.

Hair Color and Style: His hair is not especially long; a little shorter than neck length, which makes it rather easily kempt. It bears a striking yet girly pink hue, after a childhood incident involving an experimental hair dye which was later removed from the market altogether.

Distinguishing Features: There is a small streak of skin on his back, running down from the base of his neck for about 7 inches, that is dyed a bright pink. This is permanent, and will probably last until he dies.

Psychological Characteristics

Personality: Milo is, in two words, kindly and intelligent. He enjoys people, and seeks to understand them as much as possible. This can occasionally devolve into internal psycho-analysis, though he tries to keep that tendency in check. He reacts very warmly to those he associates with. He enjoys studying the sciences, as well. His job, which often involves increasing survivability against extenuating conditions, presents a nice balance between the two. He pursues this duty with almost motherly zeal; he seeks to ensure the safety of his coworkers more for its own sake than just a part of his duties. Also enjoys cooking.

- Likes: People in general, cooking, research, safety
- Dislikes: Spicy food, beings larger than 10' tall, and hair dye.
- Goals: Generally intends to rise to the rank of Nito Heisho and become a certified biologist, on a major ship.

History

Family (or Creators)

Milo's living relatives are his mother, father, and older sister, back on Yamatai.

Pre-RP

There is little particular about Milo's early history. His parents owned a gardening supply store. They were both out of the house often, and it fell on Milo to take care of things at home, due to his sisters general incompetence. He played the role of a third parental unit to her, really. Cooking and care taking became his habits, though curiosity and his innate intelligence still shaped him. He gained an interest in the plants his parents had to deal with; this became an interest in the life sciences in general. With his interest in biology firmly rooted in his mind, he eventually decided to join the Star Army.

Skills

Communications

Milo has basic linguistic skills in his native tongue, and those garnered through his military training (Field communications, transmissions, form and document filing).

Fighting

Milo has recieved the proper combat training provided to all Yamataian soldiers. However, his nature generally prevents him from making full use of them.

Technology Operation

He is capable of using the Kassaku OS, and entering and searching information. His interest in research has made him especially proficient in this area. He can also operate certain medical machinery, though he lacks many of the liscenses neccesary to do so. He also has the prerequisite mathematics and physics training for a soldier.

Medical Skill

Milo has advanced first aid capability, the knowledge of necessary protective equipment, and a good grasp on the risk of various environs and conditions, as is required by his position.

Cooking

While not trained specifically in the field, Milo is in fact a very proficient cook in regards to civilian recipes.
