Daria Adelle in Roleplay

Daria Adelle is a Player Character played by rynol.

Physical Characteristics

Height: 5'2" Mass: 92 lb. Measurements: 30-24-28 Bra Size: 30B

Description: Daria appears short and demure, with a usually serene - or devious - smile on her face. She has fair complexion and light blue eyes, and a rather lean build. Hair Colour and Style: She has light brown hair, which she wears with two chinlength bangs on the front, and straight down to her chest on her back. Distinguishing Features: When allowed to (ie: out of uniform), Daria often wears a variety of berets, caps, and other similar hats.

Psychological Characteristics

Personality: Daria is smart, slippery, and cute in a sort of refined, cunning way. She tends to value thinking far ahead, patience, and camaraderie. But at the same time, Daria also prefers to learn about the social group she's in, then manipulate them into what she thinks will make them more functional. Off duty, Daria comes off as fun-loving yet high-culture, and will often try to join in with activities the rest of the crew is engaging in on whatever ship she's stationed on, just for the chance to.

In times of duress or on duty, Daria keeps her sense of charm, but has a certain grit, a gleam in her eyes. She takes a sort of thrill from doing well against the odds, and could almost be considered daring. This sometimes leads to seemingly unprofessional behavior, but Daria is fairly good with keeping the chain of command, appropriate terms of addressing superiors, and so on in line. She is very group-oriented, and will often try to pull together a unit she's in to work together if they begin to falter, as well!

Likes: Keeping self-control, debate, driving/piloting things well, the thrill of victory. Dislikes: Lots of things going on at once, poor rhetoric, machines not responding, hopeless situations. Goals: To have flown every class of ship at least once. To promote justice in the world.

History

Pre-RP

Purpose made for infiltration piloting, Daria was immediately set into SAoY service. She gained a bit of a reputation as a debate freak during her rather long training period and waiting-time station. Of course, her close relationships with the fellow long-term training candidates kept anyone from getting too harsh on her in case a political opinion went awry. In fact, she finished training with an exemplary - albeit not special per se - record. The YSS Genei was chosen as her ship of choice, since the role she was created for worked very well for its projected mission. Daria herself couldn't wait...

Skills

Technology Operation

Daria has vast cross-training in international OSeS, and while she's a master of none, she specifically knows how to use most computer systems.

Fighting

Daria has gone through standard SAoY combat training. It's generally her weak point, though, as she is foremost a multiple shiptype pilot.

Communications

Daria is fluent in Yamataian, Nepleslian, and is fully trained in standard military signaling and comms procedures for the SAoY. She is also proficient in telepathy.

Mathematics

Daria had basic math training - trig, algebra, etc.

Starship Operations

Daria is a very proficient pilot, trained with piloting PAs, piloting the Yuuko class, working most of the pilot/navigation roles of larger capital ships, piloting most civilian ships, and any foreign ship designs the SAoY was able to train her in.

Vehicles

Not only is Daria rated for a large variety of spacecraft, but she's received ample training in land vehicles. All Yamataian land vehicles, and many foreign designs (especially Nepleslian) are within her skill.

Maintenance/Repair

Daria can whip most unruly vehicles/starships into shape, knowing how to restore control system responsiveness for most of the craft she's trained in. Daria can also, to a limited extent, figure out nonstandard uses of components (like changing harmonics on a CFS to produce some fancy EM effect. I nickname this trick "Star Trekking a system".)
