History

Family (or Creators)

- Miyazaki Soriya - Creator/Sister (deceased)
- Star Army of Yamatai

Pre-RP

Miyoshi's creator, Miyazaki Soriya, wanted to create a Nekovalkyrja that honored her father's research as well as create a sister in her mother's image. She had kept a very detailed diary with notes about her father's studies and findings, a plethora of entries about living with her father and their relationship, as well as a few small but extremely detailed entries about her mother that had passed away while Soriya was still young.

Soriya's father's research delved into the elusive Elves, their way of life, and anything that made them who they were. Everything ranging from the different types of Elves, their cultural differences, down to the way they came to be and what happened to them over the ages. It was how her parents met and how they would fall in love as they both seemed to share this same passion, only it seemed her father was learning from her mother and not that she were researching as well, but was the research. Soriya's mother, as it seemed, was half-Elven.

Soriya's mother was involved with the Star Army of Yamatai, though it is not known what her service entailed. To this day it is currently unknown how Soriya's mother died, though it is suggested that she died during military service in YE 27. Most likely she was killed in action behind enemy lines during the First Mishhuvurthyar War. Her body was never recovered, nor was a backup found to revive her. Data in her mother's file was incomplete and scarce, leaving Soriya to wonder why there were so many holes and discrepancies.

Years later, in YE 29, Soriya's father was killed due to an accident at his lab. Soriya was seemingly devastated. It would seem that her father had sabotaged his own experiment, suffering from severe depression. Apparently it still held true that a broken heart could not be cured in this day and age with medicine alone. At the age of 15, Soriya was alone. Instead of succumbing to depression like her father had, it ignited something within her. She had been a bright student most of her life and this was the push she needed to break out.

Late in YE 33, Soriya found herself at Ketsurui Zaibatsu working on R&D and creating Nekoalkyrja for the Star Army of Yamatai. She hoped somehow the Star Army would help her uncover what really happened to her mother. It was a foolhardy thought, however, as Soriya would find out later the answers she sought after would not come from Ketsurui Zaibatsu or even the Star Army of Yamatai for that matter.

It was in the beginning of YE 36 that Soriya decided she would try and create for herself a Neko based on her father's love of all things Elven, the image of her mother, and to fulfill a long standing desire to have a "sister". Every detail into Miyoshi was meticulously handpicked, and painstakingly so. However, something went wrong in the system, and a unique set of errors occurred, causing distinct changes to the final outcome. The deep, dark royal purple coloring of her skin would be much closer to a Drow, or Dark Elf. Her eyes were supposed to be emerald green but it wasn't listed what the color had erroneously become. Somehow even the coloring of her hair was wrong. Instead of being dark and fiery red, it came to be extremely long and platinum white.

Soriya was greatly disappointed, as her "sister" couldn't have been this Dark Elf looking Neko. Surely, she would have to start completely over and figure out how the machine went wrong. Everything was entered correctly, it just didn't make any sense how such an error occurred. Miyoshi hadn't fully awakened, and Soriya walked over to the tank getting ready to pull the plug on her failed attempt. Something made Soriya falter, she began second guessing herself the closer she got to the tank. Miyoshi opened her eyes just as Soriya reached the tank. Their golden color held Soriya, remembering something from her father's notes that an Elf with golden eyes was a sign of a "blessed" birth.

Soriya released Miyoshi from the tank and embraced her tightly, for the first time not as creator and creation, but as sisters. Shortly thereafter, Soriya began the process of downloading all essential Nekoalkyrja knowledge, data files from her father's research, and a few last files to help shape Miyoshi into the Neko she would become.

Two days had passed and Miyoshi had been hidden from Soriya's superiors as she couldn't bear to have Miyoshi taken away from her, or worse yet destroyed for being altered. All attempts had failed however, and soon Miyoshi would be taken away and shipped off to Fort Victory at Kyoto, the capital megacity of planet Yamatai. Soriya had been discharged from Ketsurui Zaibatsu for the unauthorized production of an unapproved NH-33, but in exchange they spared Miyoshi. Disgraced, Soriya left Yamatai in hopes of finding another company to work for. It would be discovered later just before Miyoshi completed basic that Soriya had been killed in an accident enroute to Nepleslia.

Basic training just seemed to reinforce everything Soriya had instilled into Miyoshi, and her “Elven” side accounted for her grace in movement and natural dexterity. She excelled during basic, her marks consistently within the top third of her class in most areas. Two areas, however, Miyoshi had the highest marks in, Power Armor use and Marksmanship. Fort Victory seemed like the perfect place for her to be, and yet it never really felt like home to her. Soriya was the only family she had, and that was taken away from her much too soon. Upon hearing later that her sister had died, Miyoshi withdrew socially, as she had all too quickly lost her only loved one.

Due to her top ranked marks in Basic, Miyoshi was offered the opportunity to stay on for advanced training. Having nowhere else to go and no immediate orders, she accepted of course. It was during this time, while living in what seemed like an extended campus for trainees, she began branching out from just her military training and dug a bit into what her actual interests were. Any down time she had she spent reading any and all material she could find about Elves, fact or fiction; she had also developed a strong love of technology, mostly computers and mobile tech to begin with; and where she discovered her love of archery.

It was like a bow and arrow were natural extensions of her body. She could close out any and all distractions when she controlled her breathing and could hit a target dead center three out of four shots while heavy winds were blowing. This seemed to make her an even better shot with most firearms as the technique was the same. It was also during this time she fell in love with the GP-12A rifle. So much so that she bought one and meticulously cares for it.

During her last month of specialized training, Miyoshi was recognized for her combat abilities and was granted a chance to pilot the newer Mindy 3A with full access to its various armaments. Compared to the older Mindy 2D, the 3A felt as though it responded better, moved faster; all around just was better. Miyoshi loved the feeling of being in any power armors, feeling at home in both the Daisy and the Mindy. She hoped one day she’d be able to pilot better armors, perhaps even prototypes or experimental units. One of her growing desires is to be around bleeding edge tech, and be able to handle all of it with ease.

Upon completion of her advanced training, Miyoshi had been granted an NSP Type 33 Dark, an award of sorts for continuing to excel throughout her time at Fort Victory. Not long after getting the NSP, Miyoshi invested in larger battery magazines, deciding it necessary to stay prepared. She hates running out of ammo with a passion, almost as much as running out of shampoo and/or conditioner. It wouldn’t be long at all before Miyoshi would receive orders to join the YSS Sakura II

Skills

Star Army Training

Having completed both basic and specialized training at Fort Victory, Miyoshi is proficient in all Star Army Common Skills.

Marksmanship

Through both natural ability and tireless practice, Miyoshi is recognized as being highly proficient with most firearms in use by the Star Army of Yamatai, both in and out of Power Armor. Her favored weapon (outside of Power Armor of course) is the GP-12 Phased Pulse Rifle (Variant A - No Grenade attachment) Her archery skills further improve her marksmanship, granting her better focus and better accuracy.

Fighting

In addition to the combat training received during her stay at Fort Victory, Miyoshi is highly capable with regular and composite bows, which she attributes to her Elven affinity. Miyoshi is also very comfortable in either a Mindy or a Daisy, but given the two, she'd prefer the Mindy (especially a 1h model)
