Physical Description

Mizu appears rather slender and lean, paired with mid-spinal length, forest green hair as well as deep violet eyes which covet her personality. Her skin is slightly sunkissed, with a delicate appearance to it. Upon physical contact however, her well toned muscles can be felt for an instant, as she tenses due to uneasiness with such sudden contact before easing back to a soft, almost plush texture. Her facial expression seems very soft, with a small cute nose and delicate, soft looking lips to match.

When not on duty, Mizu tends to dress mainly in baggy-like clothing as a uniform can be tight, form-fitting and at times uncomfortable. Usually with clothing lines that match her unique personality. Her expressions do not change often, so as such, many may view her as having no form of facial emotion to her, almost as if giving her the false assumption that she is cold and calculative. However, this is quickly put to rest once she is addressed. She may seem cold to those around her before warming up to them, but this does not seem the issue when on duty as it is required for her to not have personal issues with other ranking officials.

Mizu is often seen with bounts of jewelery as well as other such trinkets and accessories.

Psychological Characteristics

Fairly easy-going, this adolescent girl appears to be extremely cold and cut-off from the rest of the world as per initial perception, such assumptions are put to rest with a warm welcome and caring smile. Through family values, Mizu has learned that through maintaining a clear mind and open heart; one can achieve anything.

When angered, Mizu can have moments of strife, straining to keep from physical confrontations. These moments do not last long, however, and are not much of a worry to others. When sad and / or depressed, Mizu finds it hard to turn to anyone who isn't of blood relation. This helps her practice dependency of herself even more when not on away leave, where she cannot be in the presence of family or relatives.

Biography

History

Pre-RP

Mizu comes from a long line of family that has suffered from the wars that have passed as well as the ongoing war in the present. As such, to help bring about an era where the future of the Kisaragi can live in peace, as all Yamataian's may as well, many of the Kisaragi lineage offer services to the Star Army in any such forms as they can. Mizu's Family is fairly modest, home life is that of much labor.

In her growing years, she would prepare food with her Mother, as well as learn specific ceremonies and practices. Etiquette was a basic essential that has been passed down through each generation. The ability to host guests in a proper and polite manner brought about great honor to the household and Family name, which was the greatest of all gifts among the people.

Mizu, although maintaining home life, was able to balance out with a social and academic life after the age of nine when she no longer received homeschooling and was registered with a public school. Through academics, Mizu met many akin to her and became friends with quite a few. School was nothing like that at home, leaving her some freedom as it were, to grow in her own direction. She became more aware of the war and its affects on the people. Mizu and some of her friends soon transferred to another school, as the present school did not offer the required 'skills' they were going to need.

This sudden change in direction was as no surprise to her Family. As they did not agree with what she was doing, she was her own person now and was able to therefore make her own decisions. At times, they would try to sway her decision, but each time Mizu would answer the same. After such, her parents supported her and helped her with anything she needed. Her happiness meant their happiness.

After her graduation, she took up piloting and her progress in Power Armors was astonishing to say the least. She took this opportunity to sign up with Star Army, her parents backing her with moral support.

RP

After getting accepted into the Star Army of Yamatai and being assigned to the YSS Senbu, Mizu meets with the exuberant Shizuka Endo, Shosa of the Senbu. Mizu is then briefed upon departure of their first mission to aid and repair the YSS Takemitsu, when another ship approaches and deploys some units upon the ships. Mizu is ready for the mission, almost anticipating it when the communications officer gives the order to get to the Power Armor Launch Bay and prep for battle.

Deploying into battle, Mizu lasts a fair bit into combat but is rendered unconscious by one of the unknown enemy units. When she awakens, she is within the Senbu's Sickbay. Released due to no major crippling ailments, Mizu heads to the debriefing room, in the Main briefing amphitheater on Deck 14. From Deck 12 that wasn't an issue, in the turbo lift however.. Mizu is accompanied by a Nekovalkyrja by the name of Hayashi Nyoko. The two of them become friends fast, although Nyoko seems a bit shy at first.

Mizu, accompanied with Nyoko, head to be debriefed together with the rest of the crew as well as some crew from the YSS Takemitsu ship being repaired. Mizu is called up to be awarded and promoted a rank. Though it was fast, her promotion hasn't yet affected her quite yet psychologically as she is focused on her duties, personal life and her new found friend.. Nyoko. After debriefing, Mizu spends the rest of the day with Nyoko as everyone involved with the mission got the rest of the day off to relax.

The following day, Mizu had lazed around her room, slaving over her sketchbook to create some character drafts for a manga she was putting together. Having lost track of time, Mizu found that she was late for the meal and placed her manga aside and left for the Mess area. When she arrived, she had grabbed a tray of the food that was being served and found company next to Nyoko, her friend. The two chatted for some time until Kuriko, one of the recently transferred Caretakers from the YSS Takemitsu waved to them and joined them with her meal as well. The three continued discussing the days events before finishing their respective meal. Nyoko had decided to stay in the Mess and read her book some more, Kuriko had something of her own to do, which left Mizu with her plans to head to the hangar and make some adjustments and prep work to the Mindy she was using during the mission. But as she got down to the Power Armor Launch Bay, she was stopped by one of the Shoi overseeing a refit to the interior.

She had been informed that as a member of The Pride Wing, she would be assigned a new unit of her own, and be given special treatment under the care of the Shosa, Shizuka Endo. Mizu was excited, as she went over the requirements and regulations of her new station and what its job entailed. Her Mindy, which was slightly more than special than a normal one, was giving her a hard time as far as coming up with a name was but it wasn't long before she decided on one. Mizu called her Mindy: Morality, but not long after her succession in choosing a befitting codename was she greeted by Kuriko and then by Nyoko. Mizu was happy to find out the the two of them were also assigned their own respective Mindy's and they were given instructions to suit up for a training mission.

The training didn't seem long, it was possibly about ten minutes.. maybe less than that. It seemed more like a combat evaluation test more than anything, and as such was a blow to Mizu's ego when she failed with her squad members, Kuriko and Nyoko. Although Mizu didn't fair well in the simulation, she reassured her friends that they would pull through and push forward. Ever striving for self improvement, Mizu was looking forward to the next training date, although her expression may have given off otherwise.

The following morning, Mizu was to proceed to the Power Armor bay with the rest of the Pride Wing members to receive ample training for future battles as previous testing proved disastrous. Upon arrival into the bay, Mizu was approached by Kuriko who at the time had been having trouble understanding the specifications for her Mindy. The two started conversation over their training officer, Akira was his name. In the midst of their conversation however, orders were issued to suit up into the Mindy's and deploy for a mission involving a search and rescue from what seemed to be downed transport ships in the direction of the Pirates the Senbu had been pursuing since the last encounter.

Mizu suited up into her Mindy and deployed with her team and proceeded on with the mission at hand. The mission started out fairly well, as any other would have, with the exception of real-time experience. Of course, Mizu had experience. Simulation experience, that is. She had been a stranger, somewhat.. to the concept of raw, battle experiences. With this conclusion in mind, Mizu still attempted her very best, but ultimately she couldn't satisfy the expectations of her superiors for the battle that took place. Mizu was among those that fell in battle against the Pirate fleet.

When Mizu came around to consciousness, she found that she was recovered from the vacuum of space and slowly had the finishing touches put on her body to be fully healed and functional. When she was released from Sickbay, she made her way immediately to her quarters. Not long after that, all members of the Pride Wing were called to another training exercise within the simulator

(Mission details pending)

At the end of her time, Mizu was dropped off at the ARIES Star base where she signed up with the Security detail. Mizu remained there for the course of three months, going about her duties in a sufficient manner. Nearing the close of the third month, Mizu was given orders to deploy against 'New' enemies of the Empire. During the battle, her comrades became rattled and disoriented, most getting divided off while others went MIA or were KIA. Eventually, Mizu sustained too much damage, floating unconscious inside her Power Armor. Her life signs were picked up by friendly Yamataian ship in the ARIES Defense efforts, her Power Armor along with her body being retrieved for recuperation and repair.
