Character Description

Dr. Poppy Pink has bright, eye-catching cotton candy colored light pink hair usually styled in a high ponytail with a turquoise hair tie, or sometimes left free. She has large, strikingly vibrant green eyes. Poppy has pale, freckled orangish-pink skin. She typically dresses in her Star Army uniforms or in dresses. Poppy has a tattoo of a woman with big "Gibson girl" hair on her left arm and a tribal-style tattoo of a cat on her right upper thigh. She has one additional tattoo that's typically hidden. She is 157cm tall (5' 5¾") and weighs around 62 kilograms (136 lbs).

Poppy has an adventurous personality and is fiercely loyal to Yamatai and joined the Star Army to repay them for protecting her in the past. She's selectively promiscuous with friends and members of the neon-lit underground club she visits in Kyoto. The kind of club with black latex and beds in it. Crew members of her ship know Poppy's hands are unafraid to explore their bodies and she is sometimes spotted spending an hour running her hands all over them popping pimples and pulling out ingrown hairs if they'll let her. Also, she takes people's body temperatures from inside so listen out for the sound of snapping latex gloves. She enjoys having a beer with her friends and likes to dry new things, which sometimes gets into a little trouble.

Poppy maintains a high level of combat readiness and medical expertise and has already saved several lives during her service in the Star Army of Yamatai. She knows her way around the operating table and around her starship. Before she graduated and became a doctor she was a combat field medic and served on a lot of away teams to some very dangerous places. She is a capable astronaut and operator of the Ke-M2-4 "Mindy" series power armor. She is trained as a Non-Professional Counselor (NPC).

History & Relationships

Poppy was born on YE 18.8.23 on Yamatai \(Planet\). She grew up in Tania. She says, "I grew up in an old-fashioned brick house with a small garden in the back. My parents loved gardening and had turned it into a miniature oasis amidst the urban sprawl. I remember running around with my siblings, trying to catch the koi in the pond or listening to the songbirds my mom loved to keep. You wouldn't believe it, but I was quite the troublemaker. Climbing trees, scraping my knees, and always coming home with some wild animal I'd found, insisting it was now our new family pet. I was curious about everything, always asking questions. My dad said I'd be a scientist because of my insatiable need to understand the world. By the time I was in my teens, my interests had shifted towards the medical field. I was captivated by the human body, the intricate balance between life and death, health and disease. Many evenings, I would sit with my dad in his study, poring over medical journals, discussing the latest findings. He was a renowned surgeon, and he loved sharing his experiences with me. Sometimes I'd even watch the O.R. through a window."
