In private, Chuntao is a much more reserved individual that prefers the company of close confidants or herself. In such periods of time, she writes calligraphy that she will display to the public after major decisions.

History

Pre-RP

Qin Chuntao was born on YE 11 in Roger Wilco City. Her childhood was very upper middle class, isolated from much of the typical lifestyle Neplesians go through. Though she was not ignorant of it as members of her clan were high ranking members of Lianjia Triads. She is far enough removed from it that it often is not brought up in conversations about her.

Though she would be thrown into triad politics when a rival, the Golden Orchid Group, took over pingan_biotech_corp in a hostile take over. She blamed her father's connections to the Ryu-Mizumitsu Clan and their downfall in Yamatai for giving them the opportunity.

Now exiled to Yamatai with the rest of her family, she has decided to assess her current opportunities. Should she join the Star Army of Yamatai or pursue some other profession as she thinks of ways to get back at the Golden Orchid.

Inventory

Cybernetics

As a Nepleslian Genshrin, Qin Chuntao is augmented to better handle living in an increasingly hostile universe. Being a cybernetics specialist herself, she possesses some rather cutting edge or experimental augmentations from her time working in her father's biotech company.

Neural Augmentations

60% of Chuntao's brain has been cyberized with a combination of biosynthetic replacements and nano-implants as part of a project at the company called Zhenren. Technically a final prototype, the Zhenren X5N package grants Chuntao digital mind like abilities similar to that of NH lifeforms. Though due to it being a prototype, she cannot freely wirelessly connect with digital telepathy capable species like post NH-1 lifeforms without additional hardware. But she can connect wirelessly (and by wire) to any computer network (or Neko) she has been given access right for.

She also has a number of software packages added to enhance her mental abilities. A drawback for her is the occasional annoying migraine pain medication can dull.

Body Augmentations

Chuntao's ribcage is minimally reinforced to support the complete replacement of her limbs with mechanical augmentations. Regarding her organs, they are largely untouched saved for her heart which has electroactive polymers that help her it pump more efficiently. Lastly, data ports for direct line connections to equipment are located above her shoulder blades.

Limb Augmentations

Chuntao's right arm and left leg have been completely replaced by sleek Zhenren X1 black mechanical limbs. There is nothing overly special about her leg other then that it has been reinforced to act as a bludgeoning weapon with inertia enhancers to add force to kicks.

Her right arm possess a similar inertia enhancer to empower punches and can have extendable nanoceramic blade should she provide the material needed to create it to the nanomachines within. Her palm and forearm also have volumetric projectors and data ports to connect to equipment.
