Physical Description

Himeko is a short (160cm) woman with light purple skin and sideswept silver hair. Her purplish-blue eyes and heart shaped face give her the general appearance of “cute”, but beyond this she does not stand out in a crowd.

Personality

Himeko is a rather withdrawn person, although she has an abiding passion for scientific discovery and karaoke, often humming or singing to herself when working alone. While she has not yet made any connections beyond a few with her cohort in training, she does push herself to make them, when possible. She has a deep interest in botany, including xenobotany, as a way to appreciate the beauty of life.

History

Yamada Himeko was born 11日 2月 44 in Nataria Fleet Depot. Himeko was first activated in the Fleet Depot and went through initial socialization and training soon after. With her 'natural' aptitude for science, she soon joined the science specialist training course. While she was not immediately posted to a ship upon graduation, she served several general pool assignments while waiting for one to become available. All she wanted was a shipboard posting, preferably one going into new territory.
