

Black Wing Enterprises

BWE is a multi-faceted company that produces the majority of New Dusk Conclave products, from milspec equipment to even general products like food, and was founded in early YE 41.

About the Black Wings Enterprises

In YE 40, the New Dusk Conclave realized they needed to sponsor a company that was local to handle product sales and manufacturing, as in order to kickstart the forming of a proper economy in the young nation. So the idea for Black Wings Enterprise was drafted with a few recruited bright minds for business and manufacturing, hoping to put those skills to use in a company that would put things into motion, and greatly improve profits. The NDC handed over all their research data to give the forming company a starting point in development, and research for new products. The new office building and factory to get them started was finished in YE 41, and the company finalized and officially opened later that year, taking over all economic responsibilities that the government had been handling up until then. Ring Master Elio'Sin'To "Celebration" Llamnel, Tilia Shervana, and Kai'lara Garn'ikia were announced publicly as its first CEOs that same day. Though, Tilia resigned soon after founding due to personal reasons, with no clear sign of a possible return to the company, leaving it in the capable hands of her cohorts.

Headquarters

The main office building for BWE is located in the market district of Obsidian city on the planet Sirris VI, the New Dusk Conclave's capital in the Sanctum star system. It run and overseen by the three CEOs that founded the company, as well as where the minds that share government research to the company reside. The building is a 40 story skyscraper of metal and technology, the company name and logo projected over the face of the building the population walk by everyday regularly.

Inside is sleek surfaces, and the best technologies that the NDC has to offer, as the minds in cubicle style stations type away at projected keyboards to handle the logistical side of operations. Some floors contain labs where new products are thought up and prototyped for manufacturing, using the data provided by government sources for use of research. On the highest floors are the main board room, the administrative offices, and the top being studio style apartment spaces where the CEOs reside. Atop the building is a large landing pad and communications mast, the pad able to provide a location for most sized shuttles to set down.

Facilities

Here are the various properties and facilities the company owns and operates for various purposes.

Sirris VI: NDC Green Zone Factory

Outside the NDC's capital city of Obsidian city, lies a wide 15km stretch of jungle from the beach to the mountains that surround the bay the city sits in. In this small controlled area of the region, the company had a large factory built with the help of the Department Of Engineering. They had the facility built with the best technologies for manufacturing, safety, and transportation that the NDC had to offer. The facility covers a 3 mile by 2 mile plot of land, and is the place of work for over 2,000 workers, not counting autonomous units. This is where the majority of of BWE products are made, then transported to the warehouses near the spaceport for export, or for sale in local stores. A few liaison personnel from Department Of Advanced Research And Development \(D.O.A.R.A.D.\), are stationed here to share research data, as well as act as a communications bridge when the need to commission the company for a project arises.
