

Galactic Horizon Personnel Structure

The following article details each occupation within Galactic Horizon as well as the different ranks associated with them, with information about their job, uniform and paygrade. Its primary use is to provide players with a guide to help when creating and playing a Galactic Horizon employee.

Types of Characters Wanted/Preferred

Horizon is a company that operates and does business with many factions and groups within the Star Army universe and as such has been exposed to many types of people both as customers and employees. This includes species, personalities and different skills.

Species

Currently the doors of Horizon are open to any and all species who wish to work among their number and was the first group in the setting to have an official Hedoro employee within its ranks. While Horizon itself is accommodating of all types their HQ location within Neshaten space means that access to many species is restricted, in order to keep its doors open while respecting the Neshaten isolation culture an employment scheme was started.

In late YE 40 Horizon was formally approved to operate within Yamatai Star Empire and Democratic Imperium of Nepleslia and constructed many consumer outlets as well as stock warehouses and a single manufacturing facility in each territory. Citizens of these nations are able to gain a position of employment with Horizon through these outlets, they may also request a transfer to the HQ which must be approved by Donvan Black.

Skills

While there is no set of skills that a character absolutely must have in order to join Horizons ranks there are several which will provide a much more realistic chance of them being hired as opposed to having zero notable skills. Some occupations within Horizon may teach a character a certain skill to ensure they can work effectively, such as security roles being trained in combat, more information is provided in the Occupations section.

Technology Operation: Useful across the board, Horizon is a very technology orientated and based company with a particular affinity for digital systems and design. Characters with this skill will easily be able to fit into most Horizon roles with little extra training required.

Engineering: Characters with this skill have a good chance of being hired on to work in the manufacturing and development facilities. Also useful for designing new products and conducting research on prototypes.

Biological/Medical: This skill is a highly sought after skill at Horizon HQ and any employees with this skill are almost always assigned to the biotech research and development areas.

Occupations

There is a number of different occupations within Galactic Horizon that each play a role in the overall function of the company. Each occupation has its own ranks and special positions and while no occupation will require a skill some may 'teach' characters certain skills which should be listed on their sheet. If getting a job at Horizon was the reason for them learning the skill then it should be listed as such, if they possessed it before their employment then it should clearly show this.

Administration Team

The Admin team works in the shadows as it were, keeping the records in check and ensuring all of Horizon's employees are staying out of trouble. The admin team is based solely in the HQ on Jui'Varen II but will dispatch members to visit outlets when necessary.
