

Rapid Disaster Response Service

The Rapid Disaster Response Service (RDRS) was a line of disaster recovery technologies and systems built by the Geshrinari Shipyards, which was the shipbuilding division of the Tamahagane Corporation. RDRS was unveiled in YE 42.

About the RDRS

The Rapid Disaster Response Service was created by the Tamahagane Corporation in YE 42. After seeing the devastation of the various Mishhuvurthyr wars, as well as the battles with the Kuvexians, the Tamahagane Corporation chose to develop unique technological solutions to help render aid to those who were suffering, and to facilitate the evacuation of Yamataian Citizens from disasters.

Details About Rapid Disaster Response Service

The technological solutions developed as part of the RDRS line include mobile space stations from which responders could operate. The corporation staffed these stations their EM-J2 Series Servitor Android, which reduced the number of personnel who needed to participate in the recovery efforts. As the androids did not tire and could work for hour without rest, this made them ideal candidates for recovery projects.

At the heart of the line of products is the Ge-H4-1a - Hachinosu Rescue Station. These stations are the hubs from which each disaster recovery group operates, and they are built at Geshrinari Shipyards Space Docks.
