

"Tachikaze" Point Defense Cannons Type 43

A Point-Defense Cannon System developed by Yugumo Corporation in YE 43.

About the "Tachikaze" Point Defense Cannon

Weapons development lineages for the Yugumo Corporation mostly originate from Motoyoshi Fleet Yards. It was determined that the majority of those designs were obsolete and not viable for their active product lines. Designers in the corporation desired to develop up-to-date modular weapons systems that could be deployed across a variety of ship classes in ships developed outside of their contracts to the Star Army of Yamatai.

The first system that would be designed, which became an active product line in 1月 43年, was the Tachikaze Point-Defense Cannon. "Tachikaze" translates to "Sword Wind" in Yamataigo (邪馬台語). The system was a quad-barrel rapid-fire  plasma cannon designed with active tracking through the MIKO Electronics Suite. The system was designed by Motoyoshi-Kotoku Sui, an active Chujo in the Star Army of Yamatai.

The cannon design was presented in a retractable "pop-up" configuration with quad-cannons capable of rotation in any direction not blocked by the ship's hull. The assembly would be easily swapped in or out during regular maintenance to ensure faster turnaround times at repair facilities.

The cannons are dependant on their energy source, as long as their power source is operating they can fire.
