

Standard Abwehran Captain's Suite

One of the second largest living quarters for single occupants, the captain's suite is actually three rooms dedicated to the Captain of a warship.

The first room is the Day Cabin. This is much like an office and living space where the Captain normally conducts her non-combat related work. In this room, a office desk with built-in computer lies to the back with a comfortable reclining chair. To the left side of the Day Cabin, a couch with coffee table is located to entertain guests. A door lies on the right side of the cabin and leads to a lavatory. This Lavatory connects the Day Cabin to the Captain's Quarters.

The Captain's Quarters is mainly just a regular room that contains a single, full-sized bed with end table beside it. There is also a small closet opposite of the entrance and a dresser right next to the entrance. A foot locker is located at the foot of the bed as well for added storage space.
