Nano-Transistors

Abwehran nano-transistors are used in all modern computing technology, from toasters to full fledged computers. These make up the most modern of processors, and are even being tested in a more dispersed form, as a different form of wireless technology.

As Nano-transistors are so small, air-cooling is the most efficient method, and is widely used everywhere the Abwehrans have air.