

20x75mm Chelti Shotgun Buck

The semi-standard 20x75mm shotgun sub-projectile shell. The greater length of chelti shells allows a wider diversity of charge to payload ratio, however the addition or subtraction of a few pellets makes little difference to the overall effect. A deadly cone of small pellets being shot out of the barrel to eviscerate almost anything organic at close range, and pepper anything else in effective range.

Traditionally used against small game, as a wounding round it sees use in chelti military armaments. It sells for 80ks for a box of twenty.
