

LSDF Small Ready Room

Designed to be able to seat a platoon, the small ready room is designed to seat sixty persons. These rooms include basic audio-visual presentation equipment, and have a circular design with bench style seating. These rooms are often designed so the seats encircle a central presentation platform where a presenter would be able to use holographic and volumetric projection technology to be able to face the full group and provide an equal view to all observing individuals present. Often these ready rooms are located near launch bays and armory rooms.
