

T-Shirt

The T-Shirt is a familiar and ubiquitous upper body garment that can be used as an undershirt or worn on its own.

The cost of a T-Shirt is typically from 1 to 5 KS.

History

The T-Shirt was invented by humans shortly before they developed spaceflight and quickly became a staple of human clothing, initially as an undergarment and then as casual outerwear. After humans spread throughout the SARPIverse and into the Kagami Galaxy, more species began to use them.

Description

T-shirts are typically made of jersey-knit cotton, synthetic fibers, or some combination thereof. They are easily donned, easily cleaned, and their flexible material makes them easily fitted (e.g. less sizes of T-shirt are necessary for a good fit compared to dress shirts). They are also very inexpensive to manufacture and purchase.

Plain T-Shirts

T-shirts are made in every color imaginable. The most common colors are white, black, olive green, and blue. T-shirts primarily meant for use under other clothing are typically plain.

Ringer T-Shirts

Ringer shirts have a band of different fabric around the collar and sleeve openings. They are often used as part of gym uniforms.

Printed T-Shirts

T-Shirts intended for use as outerwear often have logos, slogans, and humorous messages printed on them.

Usage

T-Shirts are used in the following uniforms and sets:
