

Jensen's Bar

Jensen's Bar is a quiet little bar, built and furnished by Amelia "Amy" Jensen in YE 32 in Francia City. Most of the furniture is good, well-sealed hardwood, and pretty much everything that could be used in a fight has been quite well bolted to the floor with iron fittings.

Jensen's serves alcohol of its own recipes, and a small number of commercial beers as well. The full bar is complimented by a full kitchen as well as a grill, and it serves a full menu of Food, with two separate menus for lunch and dinner time. Jensen's has a small staff and is run independently.

Layout

Features

Jensen's can hold around 40-50 people during their busy hour (even if the staff will be going slowly insane at that point), but has seating for around 20 at the bar, and a bench circling the wall opposite the bar.

There is a pair of pool tables in the north end of the bar, and a pair of retro arcade style games wedged in between the bathrooms, which take up the northmost end of the building. In the southwestern corner is a small stage with all necessary plugs for bands to set up and perform, and speakers are placed at various places throughout the bar to keep the sound fairly even, if not loud. They're connected in to a sound system, and a small number of televisions placed above the bar.

Last, but not least, is a gun locker inside the kitchen. Former marine or not, Amy has no doubts about how much trouble a fight can turn into if everyone is packing. Therefore, one of the house rules is that everyone in the bar is required to turn in any guns when they come in, and she's included a detector system in the doorway to that end.

Menu
