

Officer Training

STAR ARMY TRAINING ADMINISTRATION

Officer Training is a Yamatai roleplaying plot based at Fort Hikari (all IC training/location info in the link) to be run by GM ethereal that surrounds the training and off-duty life of a new batch of Officer Candidates. Here they learn how to be leaders and hold the respect of their troops, battle tactics and logistics. The experiences and knowledge they possess from the past will surely come in useful to complete the tasks put to them and also to help their platoon to pass the class.

Only the best few will receive the final honors, the greatest of which is the Sword of Excellence - a badge of honor and fast-track for any potential command officer. This plot also acts as a dry run / training area for potential GMs or Co-GMs who may want to figure out how to play their officer roles effectively and convincingly, parts of the training requiring a player to write for several NPCs under their command.

Status: Officer Training is accepting new players at this time.

Plot Overview

Officer Training is a training plot based at the Fort Hikari, revolving around the current class of Officer Candidates from all walks of life. Some may be ex-NCO, Nekos straight out of Basic or other races just coming of age to join.

The IC aim of this plot is to equip the candidates with everything they need to command, to lead and to become strategists.

The OOC purpose is to allow players to gain actual military knowledge, to better RP their characters in other plots - especially those in leadership roles. Any potential GMs can use this plot to develop a Captain for their vessel until such a time they kick off their plot rather than fabricating their background!

This plot is aimed at players with characters in officer or NCO roles in other plots given the daily posting speed and aim but all are welcome if they can keep up with the speed.
