OIF Atuan III
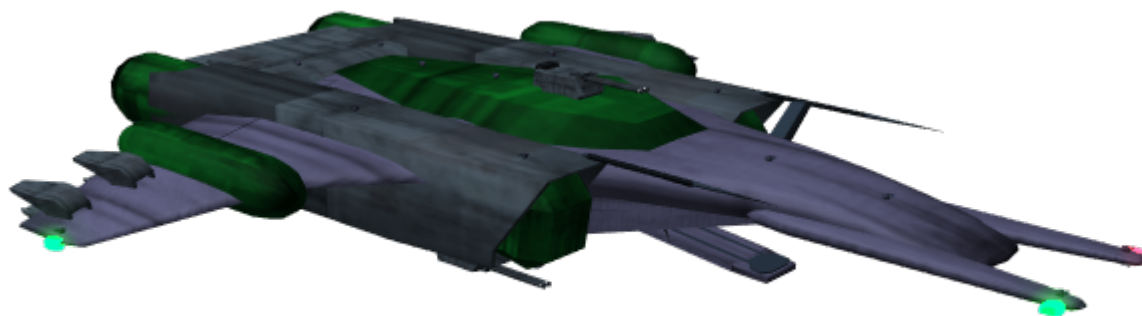

The OIF Atuan III is a Serendipity-Class. It directly continues from the OIF Atuan and the OIF Atuan II. Roleplay on the Atuan began July 20, 2009. The OIF Atuan III is a Mecha test carrier, whose purpose is to ferry experimental frames to test grounds. After the Mecha Test team's Haiatus from YE 34 to YE 36, however, they have been reactivated in order to combat a Pirate scourge that has been attacking Origin shipping lines with what appear to be versions of Origin's own Mecha...

History

Atuan II

The Atuan II

Second Life

After Bringing down the Kensuke/HiGa conspiracy, the Atuan was heavily damaged, and left in port for a long period of time, Stripped of mecha and supplies, it lay forgotten for nearly two years before a resurrected Frame Test program called for the ship to be Refitted and rebuilt to make it perform its job even better than before. Given extra defensive armament, a catapult for launching frames, and a new main entrance to the hangar, the Atuan II was re-Christened the Atuan III and loaded with the next generation of powered frames. This 'test program' however, was actually to be a campaign to bring down a group of pirates whom were preying heavily on Origin lines as well as shipping lanes in Nepleslian space in general.
