

Third Fleet

The Third Fleet of the Star Army of Yamatai is composed of 1093 warships — 520 newer ships, 572 old ships, and one flagship — plus 100 supply transports. It is headquartered at Virginia Fleet Depot and commanded by Shizuka Endo. It primarily works with the Star Army Reserve, with members of the Reserve undertaking their yearly training aboard Third Fleet craft. It is technically the reserve fleet for times of war, with most of the craft occupying core system patrol duties, undergoing new refits from Star Army Research Administration and helping with Star Army Logistics in peacetime.

History

The Third Fleet has a long and storied history stretching back to the foundation of the Grand Star Army. During the Chaos Hive War of YE 21 the Third's infantry regiments fought on the war-torn planet Ayenee, marking the fleet's first major engagement. As the Second Draconian War raged on in YE 24, with Chujo Zaitsev in command, the fleet was ordered to remain at Ayenee to watch for hostile forces and new aliens¹⁾.

Before the Nepleslian Star Empire broke away from the Yamatai Star Empire in YE 28, the fleet garrisoned Nepleslian systems. It participated in the First Mishhuvurthyar War and fought at the Battle of Nepleslia in YE 26, where it was nearly destroyed during the engagement.

After the reorganisation following the Kuvexian War, Third Fleet works very closely with Star Army Personnel Command and Star Army Reserve. It works closely to help Star Army Logistics as well.

Death and Rebirth

During the Second Mishhuvurthyar War, the Third Fleet was destroyed in battle with the NMX. At that time it was commanded by Taisho Anzai Saya. It was reactivated again before the Battle of Yamatai in YE 33 and filled with recently-decommissioned ships that were en route to Virginia Fleet Depot when the fight broke out. Following the war, the fleet had no commanding Taisho and was based at Virginia Fleet Depot until Hokusai-taisho was reassigned from the Ninth Fleet in YE 36.

In YE 39, a Lorath civil conflict resulted in rebel encroachment upon the territory of Yamataian allies in the Kikyo Sector's northeast, and the Third Fleet was sent in as a preventative measure to keep open hostilities from erupting between the minor powers. Its mission was quickly successful with rebel Lorath forces retreating away upon the Third Fleet's arrival.

The Kuvexian War

By the time the Kuvexian War broke out, the Third Fleet was still composed of its aging collection of old Ayame-class Cruisers and Irim-class Gunships, and had been consigned to reserve duties in the aftermath of the Battle of Yamatai. Following the Seventh Fleet's struggle to wrest control of the Separa'Shan homeworld Essia from the Interstellar Kingdom Of Kuvexia, the Third was bolstered with 220 new ships of the line and ordered²⁾ in YE 41 to retake the occupied star system alongside the Ninth Fleet. The two fleets performed Operation Sovereign Commitment³⁾ and retook the system's space from the Kuvexians over the course of several hours.

During the Kuvexian Invasion of YE 41, the Third initially spread out⁴⁾ to secure systems between the Ketsurui Military Sector and the samurai_sector. Within days, however, the fleet retreated to the Virgo Defense Sector⁵⁾ to fortify the Fleet Depot, Star Army Intelligence, and Star Fortress there.

Throughout the Kuvexian Advance of YE 42, the Third Fleet held its lines in the Samurai Sector and did not participate in the subsequent Third Battle Of Nataria, having only recently launched a joint Uchuugun-Rikugun task force to the Kuvexian frontier⁶⁾. Around this time, Virgo Star Fortress was put under Third Fleet administration. Otherwise still recuperating after Operation Sovereign Commitment, Hokusai-taisho focused her fleet with an eye toward modernization and added several new-pattern gunship squadrons, destroyer groups, and replaced a handful of cruisers and battleships lost during previous engagements. Toward the year's end, Yui-taisho revealed a plan⁷⁾ to strike at the heart of Kuvexia and ordered the Third Fleet to join her multinational strike group.

Post-War

After the Kuvexian War's end, the Eighth Fleet was merged into the Third Fleet and Taisho Shizuka Endo became its new commander.

Composition

About half of the Third Fleet is made up of older warships with designs dating back to the First Mishhuvurthyar War. Since its reactivation, the fleet has usually been relegated to reserve or support duty, but has been pressed into service more often in recent years. Modernization efforts starting in 3月 YE 42 have focused on replacing losses of the fleet's legacy vessels with new gunships and destroyers.
