Character Description

Joizic is tall, standing at 6'2". She is also very heavily built, weighing in at 230 pounds of almost pure muscle. She has dark skin, dark brown eyes, and curly brown hair. She smells vaguely of cinnamon.

Joizic is single-minded in her ambitions. She desires above all else to command fleets of ships into glorious battle. Even in her downtime, her ambition drives her to study and practice to improve herself in whatever way she feels she is weakest.

History & Relationships

Joizic, or simply "Joi" to those who know her well, is a member of the 488 cohort. She excelled at close-quarters combat and tests of physical strength and endurance. Rather than settling for being an exceptional member of the infantry, she saw that the efforts of a single soldier paled in comparison to the contribution of a single pilot. With that in mind, she pushed herself to be a cadet in the NDC navy. Though she wasn't the most naturally gifted, she always pushed herself to the top and distinguished herself time after time while battling pirates and mercenaries.

By YE 43 she achieved the rank of Captain immediately following the Battle Of Glimmergold. However, the unpopularity of Glimmergold led to a slowdown in opportunities to prove herself in battle. Frustrated, she jumped at the opportunity to command an exploratory mission to The Kamouraska System. She realized that if she could position herself as the natural candidate for the position of Duke of the sector, she could take command of the sector's defence fleets.

When kamouraska\_ii proved to be very well-suited for habitation, she manoeuvred herself as the ultimately successful candidate to lead the colonization effort. From the moment she landed, she began plotting to establish further colonies elsewhere in the system. Towards this end, she almost immediately split up the colonists into three groups: one called Bastienne to stay behind on kamouraska\_ii, one called Adelaide to establish a mining colony on kamouraska\_i, and the last one called Cyrille to establish a mining operation on kamouraska\_iv, the short-period comet. She predicted that the abundant resources would support the new initiatives to build up the NDC fleet after their losses at Glimmergold, and that her control over the entire sector would make her the natural choice for the title of duchess of the Kamouraska system.

What she didn't count on was the surprising ambition and good luck of her fellow 488 cohort member, Rioc 488, whom she had always regarded as distastefully underperforming.
