Anurakti Station

About the Station

The Anurakti Station is a hollowed out asteroid, positioned within the thick asteroid belt of the Ulyshi Star System. It was constructed for Captains Ulysses S. Werner and Aashi Nath Werner to be their base of operations for their privateer work in the Iruotl System, under the contract of the Iromakuanhe Commonwealth. They helped to construct the base, alongside Ulysses's own Ragnarok Company.

The interior of the asteroid base is pressurized, allowing for work crews to move about and make repairs on the ships without bulky pressure suits. The entrance to the base acts as a massive airlock, pressurizing and depressurizing as ships come and go. The airlock is also made up of 3 massive blast doors for pritection and to also allow for the secruity crews to authenticate who was aboard the ships before they are allowed into the station.

Facilities

The inside of the Anurakti Station functions much like a miniature city. Since the base is pressurized, the buildings inside are much like any terrestrial city.

Docks

The docks are the bays where the ships can dock and be worked on, as well as resupply and change out personnel. The docks are large U shaped structures which connect to a central tower inside the station.

The tower is where the docking control takes place.

Crew quarters

The buildings which house the crew quarters are comparable to standard crew quarters on any spacestation. Each room contains a bunk bed, with a personal workstation for each occupant. Each floor has communal showers and bathrooms.

Fabrication bays

The fabrication bays are built around the Molecular Furnaces.

Hydroponics buildings

The hydroponics builds are quite extensive, providing all the food and majority of the oxygen for the base.

Armories

There is not one set Armory, but there are several spread through all the buildings on the base. Each containing small arms, and ballistic vests. The Ragnarok Armories contain more heavy weapons and also contain PA Bays as well.

Combat Information Center

The Combat Information Center, or CIC, is where the Werners prepare for their engagements with the New Veyrin Republic and other enemies of the Iromakuanhe Commonwealth. The CIC contains a holotable, and also multiple display screens.

Hospital

The base contains a fully functional hospital for the stations occupants. The Hospital has multiple trauma bays for emergency surgeries. It also has general practitioners for everyday illnesses and a few specialists such as obstetricians, Orthopedics, Otolaryngologists, etc.

Crew Lounges

There are several crew lounges across the station. All of them contain several amenities for kicking back and relaxing. Such things include: a fully functional bar, entertainment systems, etc.

Barracks for Ragnarok personal

There is separate quarters for the Ragnarok soldiers who act as the stations security force, as well as soldiers for the Werner Captains. The sleeping quarters for enlisted personnel are rather tight, however they are comfortable. Each one contains two bunk beds built into the walls. They also contained four large lockers to store clothing and personal items. Near the entrance is a strictly monitored and fortified armory where all the military equipment and weapons are stored.

Engineering

Anurakti Station has a very large engineering section on the station. The station is powered by multiple fusion power plants. It is also where the stations fabricators are.

OOC Notes

Gunhand4171 created this article on 2017/06/03 18:32.

🔧 Fix Me! This page needs to be updated to meet the style guide. Moved back to WIP because no approval link was found and article did not seem to meet approval standards.