History

Harrison was born in YE 18. He was raised by a Human Father and a Nepleslian Mother. That was until the age of 6 when his father left him and his mother to go off with another human woman. This left him to be fatherless and his mother had to work 4 jobs just to keep up with bills and expenses. Harrison would later find out that his father, Stephen Dee, had another son.

Harrison helped his mother with everything around the house and did good at school so she wouldn't have to worry about him. During his life in school. He would help everyone else out, and sometimes would get into a little trouble for being too helpful. He would pass with acceptable grades and go on to learn self defense classes when he turned 9.

This is when he found his fascination with the military and star ships. Harrison would devote the rest of his free time that he had to study on war strategies and other information about survival tactics. Later, at the age of 14 he would start to learn on how to pilot fighters and later learned how to pilot cruisers. Along with how to operate power armor and light mechs.

When he turned to the age of 18, he got a phone call from a hospital that his mother has died in an accident. This critically affected him as he didn't have an actual family anymore and soon enough went into a depressed state. This is around the time he was also learning how to use Conventional and Laser weapons, as well as some melee weapons. He considered suicide but then broke out of his rut when he decided that he would be better helping others.

At the age of 20 he considered joining the Yamatai, Star Army. However after some later thought, and the requirements. He decided to come back another time. So instead, he became an independent Personal Trainer. Essentially training others advanced training.

At the age of 21, he decided that he wanted to visit his father. He wanted to show him how far he has gotten without his help. As well to meet his brother he never knew. When he arrived at the latest location. They were just moving in and he saw his father and new wife smoking out in front while their young, teenage son did all of the work. He was battered and looked like he was abused for most of his life. When he went to confront his father he stopped. He didn't want to seem like the bad guy and left telling himself that he would meet his brother later. He would free him from it when he has the power to. Because he doesn't want him to go through what he has.

At the age of 22, Harrison signed up and joined Yamatai, Star Army. However shortly left due to his interested changing focus.
