Physical Description

The Rayleigh resembles less of a man so much as a walking suit of archaic armor, with a dash of sci-fi gadgetry of course. Donovan's body is painted with a satin black finish with a satin white triangular section around his neck to loosely resemble a buisness suit. Its large, heavy armor may at first appear cumbersome, but allows him a large degree of movement. It features two modes, its non-combat mode with visor open and shoulder armor rotating back. In full battle mode its neck guard raises, its visor shuts and the shoulder armor rotates to cover its arms.

Head

Keeping to the traditional Security architecture, the head includes the iconic mono-eye arrangement of previous models, however the eye is now able to be shielded behind a pair of heavy armored shutters that cut down exposure to a small slit. Alongside the central eye on raised “cheekbones” are arranged the axillary sensors.

The very top of the head of the Rayleigh is flat, but when the top shutter is open it takes up that area. Around the rim of the sides and back of the head is a much more subdued rim than what the Dennis was equipped with, the armored cheeks merge into this rim along the sides of the head. The bottom shutter slides down to create a chin when undeployed.

The neck is supported by shrouded servos along the classic black electro-muscle, surrounded by a thick collar which can be raised or lowered depending on alert status.

On the inside of the collar is a EM-J5-E3605 - Light bar / Holoprojector that works along with the EM-J5-M3600 - Emoticon pack. Occasionally an emoticon will appear on his helmet.

Torso

Two large armored shoulder plates dominate the top half of the torso with a pair of plain pauldrons protecting the armpit area, these pads are plain and clearly thickly armored. They immediately look good for shoulder bashing things, and knocking them down.

The center torso has a flexible armored breast plate designed to shift and move with the movement of the arms, bending and deforming as required, it appears as two main plates, with a central plate, connections between the three are behind what would be the pectoral area.

The lower half of the torso has smaller interlocking plates which are flexible for torso twisting and bending.

Arms

The upper arms are mostly covered by the large shoulder plates, but for the most exposed areas, such as near the elbow and the bicep, there's a small curved plate of armor embedded against the electro-muscle. The arm has a large armored gauntlet with retractable fist plates for punching hard things while keeping the more fragile fingers and palm safe.

Legs

Thick armored thighs with external carriage for sidearms or other items in its combat load also carry hips closely carried over from the Rayleigh's brother, Dennis. The knee is covered in a simple raised plate, while the greaves are thick, solid and taper into a small square, from which a pair of unconventional feet emerge.

The feet are made of four prongs emerge at corners, long dark toes which provide ample leverage from which to run, dodge, or dive. A central, well suspended pad central of the four toes is the closest the Rayleigh has to a conventional foot made to harsh landings, slippery floors, and soft ground. In the event of poor ground the "toe" can flatten and fold down four additional pads, giving the Rayleigh a wider, more stable "footprint".

Personality

Donovan is a stalwart, motivated personage. He carries his masters flag and lives to honor it, putting it before anything else. It is his entire purpose in life, to build Frontier Service Corporation, protect it, and maintain it. His actions are guided by a plan and his devotion to the cause is unwavering. In peace he is calm, patient, and speaks like an educated man. Whenever his cause is threatened a plan is immediately created to correct the problem, and he is more than willing to kill to ensure that his master's corporation and the USO are safe from harm. His vigilance is unending, yet he is sometimes found wandering and "thinking". There are many things running through his artificial mind at any given time and his wandering thoughts are often times when his RAM is full and he needs more time to process the data.

He possesses an odd quirk in the form of capes and ties, but never at the same time. He'll often have something draped over part of his body or around his neck for no other reason than "because I can". This may be a side effect of modifying his operating system but it has yet to become an issue.

History

Donovan was built by Candon Suites in YE 39 for the purpose of serving as his representative to the Independent and building Frontier Service Corporation. To ensure that his representative would be fully equipped to handle the assignment of building Frontier Service Corporation, Candon had personal involvement in Donovan's "aftermarket reprogramming" by imparting an illegally made copy of his own ST data modified to run in the background of Donovan's mind for whenever his input was needed while he was unavailable. This has given Donovan a very clear vision of what FSCorp should become, how his creator wants it built, and a 99% accurate answer in "what would Candon do" situations.

Social Connections

Candon Suites: Primary loyalty

Uso: Secondary loyalty.

Skills Learned

Fighting

Donovan has an innate hand-to-hand combat ability and has followed up that knowledge with a regular, secure program updates. Weapons he is trained in include pistols of all types, knives, grenades (and other forms of explosive weaponry) and rifles of all kinds. Donovan is a combat rated android built with immense physical strength and great endurance. He is a capable combatant in most conventional forms of warfare and fights much like a power armored soldier.

Humanities

He knows how to host functions of various types, and is aware of the concept of etiquette, should he ever choose to use it.
