Physical Description

Seara is 6ft, very light blonde, lean yet well toned, and fair skin. Her hair is shoulder length when done up at all, but just above mid-back when not as commonly left. She tends to put streaks of color in it, or dye her bangs. Sometimes she is even known to fully dye her hear, usually colors associated with anime hairstyles. Seara also has a DD cup chest, and more of an hourglass figure then her sister Sonia, but not different enough to be noticeable. Sonia's left arm and leg are both covered in tribal tattoos, from her wrist to her ankle.

Personality

Seara unlike her sister who is more compulsive, is much more analytical in thought process. She is calm and collected under fire, sometimes coming off as cold, or numb. She is a woman who prefers more elegant and well designed things, a passion that shows up in how ornate her equipment is. Also, whereas her sister prefers things close and personal, Seara prefers ranged combat. She has an unmatched temper that can come quiet and unannounced in full force if provoked. Seara is also not one to normally let go of things that earn her hate. To say she can be unforgiving is an understatement.

History

In YE20 Sonia and Seara were born to a couple of freelance mercs in the medical facilities of an independent space station. This made a very hectic childhood, and an even worse environment to learn and grow in. A fact that became very clear when both of their parents died in YE35. Both girls had been numbed to fighting and taught how to fight by their parents before they passed, skills put to use to survive. Once the girl's became 20, they took to freelance mercenary work, just like mom, and dad. Sonia and Seara would work job after job together, making a name for themselves in Nepleslia, and in Western space. But the sisters eventually split after a disagreement, and went there own paths, a path significantly harder without the other. Both became lost and uncertain without the other. Seara searches for her sister still, hoping to make things right, and go back to the "family" business as before.
