Camo In Roleplay

Camo is a Player Character played by Sageshooter. She is newly assigned to the LSDF Trishka.

Physical Characteristics

Height: Five Foot Eleven. Mass: One Hundred and Thirty Pounds. Bust: 32C

Build and Skin Colour: Camo's Body is lean and lithe, rather slender to go along with her bonded animal. With a slightly longer neck, she seems to give off a almost exotic air to herself. Her wings, due to her animal, have actually shrunk, smaller then usual Her skin is a palish white color, with a almost soft tint of green, though it's nearly unnoticeable. .

Facial Features and Eye Color: Camo's face is rather slender and exotic, almost looking lizard like, though in a welcoming fashion. Her eyes are odd, favoring the color and shape of her beloved Tounge, a Trin'Trat, they are a off yellow hue, with the pupil being black and in the shape of a cross.

Hair Color and Style: A longer head of hair then most, the hair is a moss green color that matches the color of her Trin'Trat. Made into long loose braids, they swish behind her almost like tails.

Distinguishing Features: Her hair and eyes, and her tongue which is longer then a normal tongue, another gift from her Trin'Trat.

Psychological Characteristics

Personality: Camo's personality is offset from her apparent looks. Cold and a little biting, Camo tends to keep to herself, aligning herself only with those of near pure blood. Raised as such, Camo has always been shown and taught that the purer the blood, the better the person. As such, she tends to deem anyone of impure or mixed blood to be less equal. Of course part of a small sect, it is due only to how she was raised. She really cares for little outside of her circle of friends and family.

Likes: Tounge, Her Mother, The sight Tounge gives her, bugs (tasty ones only), upper station people.

Dislikes: Impure blood people, lower station people, untasty bugs, annoying people. Goals: To serve in the Military and bring more glory to her family, as well as hopefully push the idea of pure and impure blooded people, as she was taught.

History so Far...

Pre-RP...

Camo was born into what one could call a noble house within the Lmanel caste, her family very well off. She was always impressed upon that the skills and abilities brought about by the pure blood of her family put her above those others around her. Sent to a school separate from others, she was schooled with a select group, a group of "elites" as they called themselves. In all honesty, the schooling and lessons were the same, no different from what a normal Lmanel would learn, the difference being that she went to the equivalent of a "Private School".

After her schooling, Camo was placed in a Pilot school. Finding that most piloting skills came almost second nature to her, Camo pursued and eventually excelled in the field. A few minor transportation and supply missions were of course run before she was eventually pulled aside for training on a experimental craft. With the training came the knowledge of the mission, and the knowledge of the mission of course came the knowledge of her next assignment.

Camo was the pilot of the LSDF Trishka's first mission, fairly easy from the standpoint of where she was. Simply following the Maras and arriving at the base there was no true stressing of her skills. A short battle ensued after the attack on the base, though again little issue with the fight, she piloted the ship back to friendly space. After the return she was taken from the ship, placed in a patrol fleet and left to just simmer in anger. It was her anger, and her self imposed "perfection" which had gone from a quiet cockiness to a full blown resentment of other Llamnel not like her, to make her become grounded and awaiting a new assignment.

Skills

Starship Operations

Of course the bread and butter of her skills, Camo is able to fly most of the ships within the LSDF ship roster. While not perfect, most of the smaller ships including the common transports, as well as the newer experimental raptor class ship for her upcoming mission, Camo is able to fly most anything save for the larger carrier types.

Art and Vocations

Camo tends to create small sculptures, either molded or carved. It allows her to forget about the sometimes nagging teachings her family instilled within her. She is also a dedicated tailor, skillfully able to craft outfits for herself and most anyone that requests it of her.

Physical

Being as trim and lithe as she is comes at a small price. She has worked out, and as such has gained a small amount of muscle, though nothing close to some others of her caste. She also tends to be much more flexible than most, a contortionist almost.

Biology

As the others of her caste have studied biology, so has Camo. Gaining a deeper understanding of her own body and those creatures around her, it aided in her bonding with the Trin'Trat. With the knowledge of her own body, it has allowed her to take on more physical characteristics of her companion, even going so far as to allow her to change her cell pigmentation to give her a camouflage ability, as well as a longer tongue and her eyes and scent ability.

Mathematics

This was on the course roster for Any who had to go into the starship operations path. While not too happy about the class or the effort required for the operations, Camo none the less knows a few fields of mathematics necessary for starship operations.

Vehicles

With a privileged life comes some perks, giving Camo the chance to learn about a few vehicles hands on. She can drive most of the land vehicles though she tends to stray from the bikes. Unable to drive some military vehicles, she can drive most any civilian vehicle.

Technology

Never really going in depth to learn more then needed, Camo knows what she needs to get by day-to-day and still live. She can access computer networks, log into networks and other basic functions, but anything in-depth escapes her grasp.
