Because experience taught him that having deep connections with others may only lead to misjudgment and suffering.

He always has a tactic, always has strategy. His life is a battleground and loves it.

History

Born in YE 02. Craig Mulder was native of Khorsovarolor.

Son of a traditional family of the Khorsoi military, he grew up in the Military academy and graduated with high results, but when he was promoted to the rank of corporal he felt that high command didn't value him properly. Thus he resigned from the army to join an interstellar mercenary group. This decision was viewed as a treachery and desertion by his family, who never wanted to see him ever again.

In the years Craig was part of the group, he excelled at his work. He became one of the best and many of the members started to treat him like a leader, much to the chagrin of Marek. Marek betrayed him, out of fear for losing his own position. With the sacrifice of one of Craig's best friends, he managed to escape the self-destruction of his ship. A clear attempt on his life. Having survived, Craig sought revenge, managing to find out who supported the assassination attempt and killing them one by one. After these tragic events, Craig struck out as a lone wolf, offering his sword up to both government officials as well as freelance companies alike, as long as they paid.

His expertise didn't go unnoticed to the Khorsoi Command, who decided to hire him during the Khorsovarolor Occupation. Well versed in urban warfare and guerrilla tactics, Craig became vital asset to the army, and during the years he led the Khorsoi militia created to support the Abwehran peacekeeping forces. Vital enough to be offered the seat of Grand Master at the end of the conflict. Though he declined.

Many years later, Craig is still a mercenary, a really important one, and is well known in the sector.

Skills Learned

Communications

Craig have a decent padronance in multiple languages such as Yamataigo, Trade and Abwheran, mostly because of his continous necessity to talk with employers from all over the sector. Craig also knows how to encrypt and decrypt messages and to use many communication devices. He make also large use of formalities and etiquettes.

Demolitions

He has been taught during his youth in the Khorsoi Military Academy, how to properly manage explosives but the large part of his practice came during the Khorsovarolor Occupation war, where he had to use explosive charges and to work like a sapper to undermine the enemy lines.

Fighting

As a mercenary for over 20 years and a military academy student for other 5 years, Craig have a incredible skill on the use of power armors, weapons and martial arts. He daily train with his gunblade, he is not the best swordsman, but as an autodidact he reached impressive levels of dexterity with it during the decades.

Leadership

Craig is a natural leader, even if he doesn't want to he always emerge leading a group and influence them with his knowledge and skills. He also learned command basics, tactics and strategies during the academy and highly used them in the conflict when he had to lead an entire militia regiments in guerrilla tactics.

Physical

Mulder's combat style is completely acrobatic with jumps, flips, sprints, slips etcetera. He learned these while under Marek's mercenary group, in his first years on the job.

Survival and Military

He has been instructed rigidly in the trainings of the academy, and multiple times Craig has been in desperate situations with but just his body and few bullets in his pistol, either being in an ice planet or a jungle one. All of this in his long decade as a lone mercenary.

Starship Operations

Craig learned to use starfighters as a member of Marek mercenary group, in such everyone had to handle one of those to be perfectly autonomous for bounty huntings (one of the major profit sources of the group). He refined such skill by offering multiple times himself as escort for cargo ships and space traders. Surely he's not a great pilot, but a good one for sure.
