Physical Description

A small and unimposing figure like most Occhestians, Adept stands at a short five foot two and weighs roughly 120 pounds. Shes thin and almost anemic looking with a thin waist, and almost non existant chest and would be roughly 90 pounds soaking wet if it weren't for the addition of cybernetics. She looks rather young for her age like most lorath.

Adepts hair is remarkably short to a simple, dyed green pixy cut that parts off to the side. Her skin is a palish off white and her jawline is tight and sharp and here eyes are a plane blue

Adept contains a small degree of cybernetics including:

Personality

Adept is a quiet and soft spoken woman with a tendency to talk to herself when distracted. Shes easily intimidated and just as quick to scare despite living several years in the loud and personal space invading land of nepleslia.

She prefers quiet contemplation and simple and short discussion but this doesnt mean that shes anti-social, just that shes likely letting her mind wander and is likely losing any grasp on the conversation due to an inability to think straight as her mind wanders from idea to fleeting idea.

History

Adept was born in YE 07.

Liaison Ree'Lena "Adept" Occhestan has no glourious history of adventure or epic tales. A simple Occhestan born lorath born and raised in the ways of her clan. A quick learned in the ways and sciences of the occhestan however saw adept grow into a young prodigy in the art of weaponsmithing and weaponized sciences and engineering at a young age for her vocation of study.

During the occhestan secession attempt from the matriarchy Adept was moved to the northern territories and new home of the occhestan, Where the proximity with groups like the freespacers and nepleslians brought new examples of weapons and ideas she had not opened her mind to earlier and began a quick obsession with the retrofitting of non-lorath technology until she could no longer reach any further in her study without traveling abroad.

Adept traveled first through yamatai, And then to nepleslia where she joined NAM as an assistant and worked her way up quickly to become an R&D director within a few short years through her work ethic and devotion to the craft.

Until recently, Adept had never returned home to the lorath territories, Even for the exodus and has become slightly nervous around her people after spending so long in a different culture.

In YE 41 Adept was sent back to former occhestan space to work as a liaison between the LSDF and NAM to to research and cooperate in retrofitting nepleslian and lorath technologies.
