History

Family (or Creators)

Has a father who works as a construction worker two younger brothers who also joined in the military, and his mother works in a clothing store.

Pre-RP

Hammond came from a poor background, and grew up working alongside his parents and brothers doing all kinds of work.

His childhood wasn't miserable, and he found time for school, eventually graduating and deciding that he wanted to try something different.

Watching by chance a pro-recruitment ad-video he and his brothers enlisted themselves, while their brothers wanted to be marines and experience the heat of the battle, Hammond took a liking for the idea of being a pilot, conquering the sky and maybe sailing in the vastness of the space, he could be an "ace" and people would count on him to defuse situations, be part of a fleet and go faster than anyone...

Being the guy on the cockpit became his newfound dream.

And when the application came by, he chose "Navy" instead "Marine Corps".

Skills

- Physical - Thanks to all the hard labor, he has some strength necessary to lift heavy stuff, and can run pretty fast, not a very good swimmer but he can survive in the water
- Construction - Learned with his father, quite good at carpentry, masonry and bricklaying.
- Vehicles - Good number of his past jobs involved delivery, so they involved all kinds of vehicles specially cars, bikes, hovercraft, and trucks, can drive them pretty fast and maintain control almost always.
- Domestic - he can do laundry since his mother taught him to wash his own clothes and can cook a mean spaghetti, too bad is one of the few things he can cook
- Rogue - Grew up in a tough place so this is almost a given, he is a very good lock picker and very wise in the "street ways", but he despises thieving, isn't very good with girls and a very bad liar.
- Technology Operation - Most of his jobs involved computers for assignments and information storage, how would he know where to deliver the next Pizza without a computer to point him the way? He can work well with them but doesn't know how to fix one or how to configure them, heck! He even doesn't OWN one.
- Knowledge - Always had good memory and working just made it better, very informal jobs, informal bosses, too much numbers and addresses to remember, faces to keep track of and names to recall all this made his mind quite sharp. He may not have a genius IQ, but he can get out of a maze if necessary.
