Character Description

Cloudheart has a very delicate and androgynous face. In some light, she looks like a woman, but in other lights she looks like a young boy. She's short, narrow, and flat-chested; however she does have wide, ladylike hips. Her hair is a short pile of white curls in poof around her head. Her eyes are like a pair of metallic-blue ball bearings, having complex sensors and cameras floating in a gel-like liquid within. These shining orbs typically peer out over a wide smile, curious at the world around them. Cloudheart, or just Cloud for short is a knowledge-hungry girl with an eye for aesthetics. She loves to play games and watch movies, and has an odd fascination with paper books. Her preferred clothing is a blazer of patchwork colors and a pair of baggy purple slacks tucked into tall bright red moon boots.

History and Relationship Notes

Cloudheart has been assigned to serve as an observer and liaison from the Free State to Neplesian training exercises. She is meant to assess the progress and methods used to train Spacer auxiliaries, as the only other means of viewing these exercises is via polysentience through the Freespacer squad-members themselves. She is also tasked with ensuring the mental well-being of her fellow spacers.
