Physical Description

Bella is the more feminine looking of the twins with mid-length wild brown hair and a set of softer features making up her face. Bella has a green right eye and a blue left eye, the difference in eyes is one of the few ways people can easily tell her apart from her sister. While she may not be identical to her twin sister Bella stands at 5'2" with a similar body build to Anna, easily distinguishable as feminine but nothing to gloat about.

Personality

Bella is the more reserved of the twins but still exudes the same excitable energy as her sister, while Anna Horizon has taken a liking to the biggest guns she can seek out, Bella prefers heavy vehicles and more elegant weapons. The longer haired variant retains the hyperactive nature of the twins but is slower to jump head first into everything.

History

Bella and Anna Horizon were grown and raised in a traveling circus in YE 20 never being told of their parents, in truth they had been intended to be prototype clones for a new act but the process had failed to meet expectations. Instead the girls were told their family were the other performers who looked after them and taught them various tricks of the trade. As the twins got older they began being allowed to perform in the circus shows with the rest of the gang, eventually starting their own duo act involving a cannon and no safety nets.

During their time at the circus Bella had put herself in charge of managing the finances of the twins, keeping some spare change on hand for daily expenses and tactfully investing and saving the rest with trusted establishments, since they weren't criminals they had no reason to hide their money. In YE 35 her twin proposed they leave their home and family behind to travel the stars and find plenty of adventure, while she initially was slow to respond Bella soon agreed and they said their goodbyes and head out, still knowing nothing of the truth of their birth.

After hitchhiking for a couple of years the twins had accumulated a lot of random and often explosive experiences, while they never outright broke the law they had drifted around different groups, looking for adrenaline rushes where they could find them. In YE 41 the two found their way to Galactic Horizon and were hired on by lab testers to mess with the strange and wonderful concepts dreamt up by Horizon.
