Character Description

Leru is a 4'7" Daur who identifies as non-binary, their appearance is fairly androgynous though somewhat feminine with a slim build, flared hips and strong legs. Leru is as toned and physically capable as one would expect a Shukaren agent to be, with an impressive amount of muscle tone visible through a thin layer of fat, this androgeny making them perfect for slipping into a variety of roles for infiltration purposes.

Leru's natural hair and fur colour is a light, almost platinum blonde, it is usually kept long though they often dye and cut it when acting under an alias, sometimes even letting their facial hair grow out for more masculine roles. Leru is typically a quiet, gentle soul and a great listener, having a tendency to make others feel safe and comfortable enough around them to spill secrets they'd never tell another soul - they're about as close to a perfect infiltrator as the kingdom could ask for.

They are dedicated and loyal to a fault.

History and Relationship Notes

Leru was born ER761v. His mother died during childbirth and the young boy's father was left to raise him, then a civil technician who would one day begin to make a name for himself in the field of communications technologies. Leru's upbringing was otherwise rather standard and uneventful, the young Daur taking after his father with a burgeoning interest in technology, and as he enlisted in the youth corps this interest shifted from developing new technologies to exploiting existing ones.

This caused the young boy to be scouted, and once finished with his youth corps service, immediately began the long journey to becoming a fully fledged agent of the crown. Leru was taught how to trick people and machines alike, his exposure to the fluidity of identities that comes with the cloak-and-dagger work of being an agent eventually blossoming into the blonde Daur adopting gender-neutral pronouns, furthering their infiltration potential.

While in their personal life Leru identifies as a they/them they easily slip into whatever role is required of them, often butchering that beautiful platinum gold fur and hair in the process.
