Rob Robertson grew up on Nepleslia, being as Nepleslian as a kid could be. He grew up around his father's gunsmith shop, and learned everything he knows about guns from his father. After Serving in the military a number of years, Rob struck out on his own and became a small-time pirate for a while, but, tiring of this, settled into a small gunshop, where he lived until an old contact from his Pirating days, Aerin Tatst offered to help him start a project that would allow him to make his own guns instead of just selling other people's products. The Nepleslian couldn't refuse and helped put his life savings into the Project, which became Origin Industries.
