Personality

Aekara is an ESTP-A²⁾ personality type, whos energetic and perceptive attitude lend to her adventurous life style. While she does not mind spending time around others, she does need a moment to herself every now and then to prevent getting overstimulated. She is highly focused and innovative, picking up patterns or details others might not see and this can be seem by others as overthinking. Emotions of others are generally dismissed in favor of rational decision making of the moment. She generally remains calm while at work with an adapt and overcome outlook that makes her very hard to deter in a work related scenario.

History

Aekara Tenui was born on Ayenee in 122 BYE to Otra and Danuri. Her birth occured towards the end of Space Race and the Colonization of Ayenee. In a tragic turn of events the life of her mother Otra was taken at an early age due to the invasion of hostile forces during Chaos Hive War. Her father Danuri managed to save her by fleeing to Noria with other members of the Tenui Ysi. During the flight over she expressed an avid interest in vessel that took them to their new home; an interest that would only increase as she grew.

On Noria the remaining years of her youth were relatively unscathed in comparison to those around her. The interest she had developed as a wee child grew as she pursued the knowledge of all things capable of flight. This kept her distracted from the more horrific events of the Umarian Wars while her father did his best to stay present in her life while serving the Norian Continuum. Tragically her father was injured in the aftermath of Lao'Taun's revival and the ensuing chaos of the Umarians driving out the Continuum.

Her father was placed on medical leave for a time due to the severity and complication of his injuries, but during this time he urged Aekara to pursue her love for science encouraging her to pursue that path of higher education. As soon as she was of age she pursued formal education in the science of Leviathan Technology and its use which became especially useful during the end of the Craethel War and the Declaration of Null. Her skills as a scientist aided greatly in the preparation of Ark Leviathans that her people to flee the destruction of Noria.

Upon Norian arrival to the Kagami Galaxy in YE 44.7 she joined the team of expert scientists at Lo'ken Institute as a chemist. She took great pride in developing innovative technologies that would serve the people of Tsenlan and the Yamatai Star Empire. After showing much promise in the development of Leviathan tech for residential use she was promoted to Project Manager in YE 45.5. In this position she would help to serve as an advisor to the Tsenlan State Quorum on the consideration of potential future open sharing of technology with the Yamatai Star Empire. So far her least favorite part of the process has been the people who interrupt her while she works on developing her Technological Responsibility briefs on the subject.
