[Personality]

Initial Observations:

[LOG 1:] Annelise Strixdottir shows exemplary eye for detail. She is acutely aware of her surroundings, like all Nekoalkyrja, but watches with high-strung anticipation. Strixdottir's blank expression is not wandering, distracted, or absent. Rather, the blank expression is extremely vigilant, even unnerving some scientists interacting with the Nekoalkyrja. Unclear whether distrust or anxiety is present; will monitor closely.

[LOG 2:] Strixdottir has begun conversing regularly with personnel within PNUgen Corp. Sentences are short and concise, and Strixdottir does not buffer her sentences with arbitrary filler. Because of this she remains silent, calculating, until she is ready to respond. LOG 1 observations compound with this behavior to create a very bold, unwavering demeanor. This demeanor seems to leave her conversations in uncomfortable limbo. Continuing to work with Strixdottir on improving social relations; will monitor closely.

[LOG 3:] Strixdottir's demeanor has softened significantly since increasing focus on interactive therapies. Strixdottir continues to hold a trained poise and exude boldness, but it has relaxed through participation in social settings and training. Anxiety is more likely affecting her public appearances versus distrust, more to come. Strixdottir's use of facial expressions and eye contact have also increased dramatically. Will continue to monitor. END TRANSMISSION

Notable Observations made by Trained Professionals:

[SUBMITTED BY: Dr. Malcolm Stricks] - Strixdottir approached me for council six months into her studies at Kyoto War College. Extremely disturbed, likely coming down from mental shock. Strixdottir informed me of a lesson recently begun in her Victim Studies class. Subject involved deceased Star Army Ranger tortured for information before a brutal and humiliating execution; an example of worst case scenario. Photographs and eyewitness statements left visceral impact on Strixdottir. Strixdottir admitted to not understanding the level of seriousness involved in war and politics. I attempted to be an unbiased voice of reason to assist her, unsure if I was successful. After four hours of conversation, she thanked me for my time and left. The next time I saw her, she did not have the same relaxed poise my team worked so hard to train into her. I fear she reverted to protect herself.

[SUBMITTED BY: Jôtô Heisho Yiitora Kento] As a Nitô Hei, it felt strange to make observations about a higher ranking soldier. Especially when inquired about her performance by my father, Taii Yiitora Taro. He wanted to know how the newer members of the YSS Kamakiri were synergizing with the established crew. I admitted that of all the new recruits I spoke with, we conversed the least. He expressed concerns about that, considering how he'd heard the same things from other crew members. She does good work, above and beyond, and no one's complaining about her efficiency or her know-how. She simply doesn't take the time to talk to people unless it's work-related. Maybe one day I'll get to know her better.
